

Historic Clinton Ave.--UR Effect Unknown

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON
The Clinton Avenue historical sector within the Old Stockade area of uptown Kingston has been added to the National Registry of Historic Places.

Announcement of the designation was made today by the office of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. According to his announcement the National Registry has been developed as an extension of the National Historic Sites Act to record the history of the United States. Buildings within the area specified as worth preserving may not be torn down without a special hearing. There must be no drastic alternation of the character of the area.

James G. Connors, executive director of Kingston Urban Renewal said he did not know as yet the effect the designation would have on uptown urban renewal plans but pledged "cooperation with historical interests in working out a plan satisfactory to all." Connors said his office is awaiting further details from the Department of the Interior as to boundaries and other specifications of the listing.

Connors said he was sure "everyone can work together" on the matter. This view was reiterated by Harry Rigby Jr., Kingston City historian and active preservationist.

Rigby today applauded the National Registry listing of the Clinton Avenue area noting that it was the culmination of at least three years of investigation as to the eligibility of the site. Registry listing is not a thing to be taken lightly," he said. Initial efforts to gain national recognition for the Old Stockade area culminated in the visit of then Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall three years ago. This was the start of something big for the area.

In the interim, New York State Historic Trust officials, headed by William G. Tyrrell, chief of historic site management and Kingston Landmarks Commission personnel headed by Fred Johnston, have presented the case to the Department of the Interior.

Rigby said that throughout the important proceedings there was the utmost cooperation between landmarks preservers and the urban renewal agency.

The city historian said the listing is going to mean "a great deal for the whole area." The immediate result will be tourist and visitor attraction to the area, but Rigby cited the far more reaching consequence of making everyone aware of Kingston's unique heritage and the need to keep the city clean and attractive. Both private and public sectors would be concerned with the effort.

In making the announcement of the listing, Representative

Fish said "The National Registry of Historic Places has been developed to record the history of the United States. It is a roll call of the tangible reminders of the history of our nation and I am delighted that the Clinton Avenue historical area has been added to this roll call of important sites."

The state has recognized the historic importance of this early area of New York's first capital and maintains the Senate House and Senate Museum complex in the heart of the Clinton Avenue area. More extensive museum facilities are in the planning stages.

The National Registry is the official schedule of the nation's cultural property that is deemed worth saving. It is a protective inventory of irreplaceable historical resources and is developed by the Department of the Interior as a guide "to a richer environment of visible continuity with the past."

The notification was made by letter from the Department of the Interior to Representative Fish in answer to his official request for the designation.

Assembly Adopts Pure Waters Plan

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Once again Assemblyman H. Clark Bell has managed to avoid having his "dump" bill dumped. The Assembly passed the measure 104-42 Monday giving local governments home rule powers over the State Pure Waters Authority.

Bell's original bill was passed last year by both the Assembly and the Senate but was vetoed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. It was the outgrowth of a discovery by Ulster County Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2) that Westchester County planned to dump its garbage in Ulster County. Under existing law the Pure Waters Authority which approved the plan can over ride all local zoning.

Resurrecting the bill this year, Bell debated the measure on the floor of Assembly two weeks ago but withdrew it when Democrats threatened to make it a party issue.

Yesterday's bill was a compromise version which gives the county legislatures a right to veto decisions of the Authority by a two-thirds vote. In watering down the bill, Bell averted debate with the Democrats who criticized it earlier.

The bill requires that State Authority "negotiate in good faith for the mutually beneficial use" of areas it wishes to obtain for sanitary landfills.

Bell said local governments weren't against landfill projects, but we say the Authority should come in and talk it over with the local people.

"If they're going to put in a landfill, we think it should also provide something useful, such as a golf course."

Bell has contended that the Authority was seeking to use the Mid-Hudson Valley as a

"dumping ground" for New York City's waste without adequately consulting the upstate localities.

One example, he said, was the agency's plan to build a landfill along the Wallkill Creek in Ulster County, where flooding could create a "floating dump." Bell said the Indians warned the Huguenots of annual flooding 400 years ago but the fact remained unknown to the agency until recently.

Bell's bill will now go to the Senate where State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, who represents Ulster and Dutchess Counties, is expected to take up the fight for its survival. The bill, as now presented would allow county legislatures to block acquisition of property provided the local government acted within 60 days of a notice of the state agency's intention to acquire the property.

Although critical of the Pure Waters Authority's present autonomous powers, Bell nevertheless refers to its overall program as "well intentioned and necessary."

But, he cautions, he is particularly concerned about the Pure Waters Authority's method of operation. "To date its public relations with sensitivity to an involvement with local government have been less than exemplary and effective. The program has been state-dominated."

Saying that the program has been administered in "a high-handed fashion," he suggested that it has not demonstrated an awareness of the needs of communities and has not been sensitive to community involvement.

"Bypassing local municipalities and citizens who best know local requirements and capabilities and depriving communities of a meaningful voice has generated hostility, suspicion and in some instances active opposition to a program which on the merits is highly desirable."

"Time is running short. We must make the Pure Water Authority Program work. I believe by abandoning unilateral methods and adopting a modus operandi of all partnership between the Authority and local municipalities, we can move effectively to reclaim and protect our environment."

"I believe that this bill offers an opportunity to the Pure Water Authority . . . to get off its high horse and work with all the people, not just the bureaucrats . . ."

Latest West Hurley Blaze Under Probe

By WALTER S. CLARK

WEST HURLEY
State Police BCI officers and fire officials have launched a joint investigation seeking to uncover the origin of a suspicious fire that heavily damaged a large unoccupied frame house on the Russell farm off Route 375 in this community Monday night.

Meanwhile, Beacon city police and fire authorities are probing the cause of a blaze that made 20 persons from eight families homeless after flames swept the huge frame mercantile-apartment building at 100 Beekman Street in that city.

Other structure fires were reported in Shandaken and Marlboro.

The blaze on the Russell farm was the latest in a rash of incendiary fires that have erupted on the property in the last 14 months. The blazes have caused much concern among residents of the West Hurley-Woodstock area and it was reported that Kingston State Police are pressing the investigation into each of the fires.

Chief Allen M. Rowe of the West Hurley Fire Department, reported that seven fire trucks from the Fire District responded to an alarm at 7:35 p.m. yesterday after fire was reported in the house on the Russell farm.

On arrival firefighters discovered flames burning in the upper part of the building. Woodstock fire units in charge of Chief Duncan Wilson responded to a mutual aid call to assist at the scene and a tanker was dispatched from Wittenberg to replenish the water supply.

Forty West Hurley volunteers were assisted by a good turnout of firemen from Woodstock during the blaze.

West Hurley reported back in service at 1:05 a.m.

Fire officials noted that an incendiary fire occurred in the Russell residence on Jan. 8, 1969, and since then a large barn and other frame structures on the unoccupied farm had burned under suspicious circumstances.

It was shortly before 7:30 p.m. Monday that the fire in Beacon was discovered and an alarm was answered by all units in command of Chief Dennis Leahey. Through mutual aid Wappingers Falls, Glenham and Chelsea fire companies were dispatched to the scene when the blaze swept out of control through the huge building, which is a two-story high structure on the Beekman Street side and extends to lower Main Street with four stories.

The upper floors were occupied by eight families. Some concern among fire and police officials came when it was reported three children were missing. They were later found, two at their grandmother's home and the third at a basketball game.

The fire started in the Gayle family apartment, apparently from a space heater, authorities said.

At 12:15 a.m. today a passerby discovered flames sweeping a 2½-story frame house on Route 28 in Shandaken. The house is remodeled by the owner Robert Dutcher, according to Fire Chief Alfred Peck. The residence is opposite the Phenicia firehouse.

Fifty firemen from Phenicia, aided by volunteers from Big Indian-Oliveria battled the flames and saved a nearby house by wetting it down as fire destroyed the Dutcher building.

In Marlboro fire heavily damaged an old unoccupied house on Route 9W and firemen prevented the flames from spreading to nearby buildings. Chief Richard McMullen was in charge. The origin was not determined.

Election Time in Area Villages; Rosendale Race Most Turbulent

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON
Voters in four incorporated villages in Ulster County and three in Northern Dutchess started casting ballots today and large turnouts are expected in three of these where the positions are hotly contested.

The polls will close at 9 p.m. The most turbulent atmosphere will be found in Rosendale where Joseph Reid, a former Rosendale mayor and a Democrat is returning to the political wars to run for the position left vacant by the sudden resignation early in January of William Curran, a Republican.

Reid is running with Robert Sheehan, seeking the trustee post. They are opposed by Carl Grassi for mayor and Arthur Mulligan for trustee on the Republican-Conservative slate. Although politically and civically active in the village, Grassi has not previously run for office. Reid has the Peoples Party endorsement.

In Ellenville incumbent Republican DeWitt Clinton, a veteran trustee, is running with Mrs. Sondra Lonstein, who was named by the GOP as a replacement for Trustee Rivan Krieger.

They are opposed by Democrats David Kramer, vice chairman of the Ellenville Housing Authority and George P. Halbig, a long-time employee of the Correction Department.

The major issues are progress and public housing for senior citizens and low-income groups. The Republicans are standing on the GOP record of progress while the Democrats are pushing for public housing.

Members of the Ellenville NAACP placed their support behind two Democratic candidates for village trustees in today's election. Story on page 3.

In New Paltz, incumbent trustees of the Peoples Party, William George and Harold Phillips have been conducting a vigorous write-in campaign. Due to a "technicality," their Party slate is running unopposed. Arthur D. York and Richard J. Underhill Jr., are incumbents seeking the two-year trustee posts and John Rivenberg is seeking the trustee post held by Charles W. Steele, who is not running for reelection. Village Police Justice David Goble is running for reelection for the four-year term.

There are no contests in the Dutchess villages of Rhinebeck, Red Hook and Tivoli. In Rhinebeck, incumbent Eugene Trombini is running with David Queen.

In Red Hook two incumbents, John Gilfeather and James Melley are the trustee candidates and in Tivoli, incumbent William Herdman is running with William Bain for the trustee posts.

Bain will take over the post vacated several months ago. The Dutchess polls opened at 1 p.m. and all polls will close at 9 p.m.

Leary Gets Another Term For Possession of Marijuana

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI)—Calling Timothy Leary a "Madison Avenue advocate of the free use of LSD," a judge Monday sentenced the former Harvard lecturer to 1-10 years in prison for marijuana possession.

Meanwhile in Dutchess County Leary and three co-defendants charged with related misdemeanors accusing them of maintaining a public nuisance and a place where drugs were used illegally on a Millbrook estate, have received adjournments until April 6.

During a session before Judge Joseph Giudice in Poughkeepsie recently, the probability arose that Leary may plead guilty to the charges, but the judge commented that he "has every intention of going ahead with the trial."

Superior Court Judge Byron K. McMillan also ruled Leary must begin the sentence only after he completes a 10-year federal term imposed March 3 in a Texas smuggling case.

During the three-hour pre-sentencing proceedings, bailiffs ejected several protesting supporters of Leary, including one who said he was high on LSD and felt "great."

George Chula, Leary's attorney, unsuccessfully argued for a new trial and bail for the graying Leary, 50, saying the court "should not make a martyr" out of him.

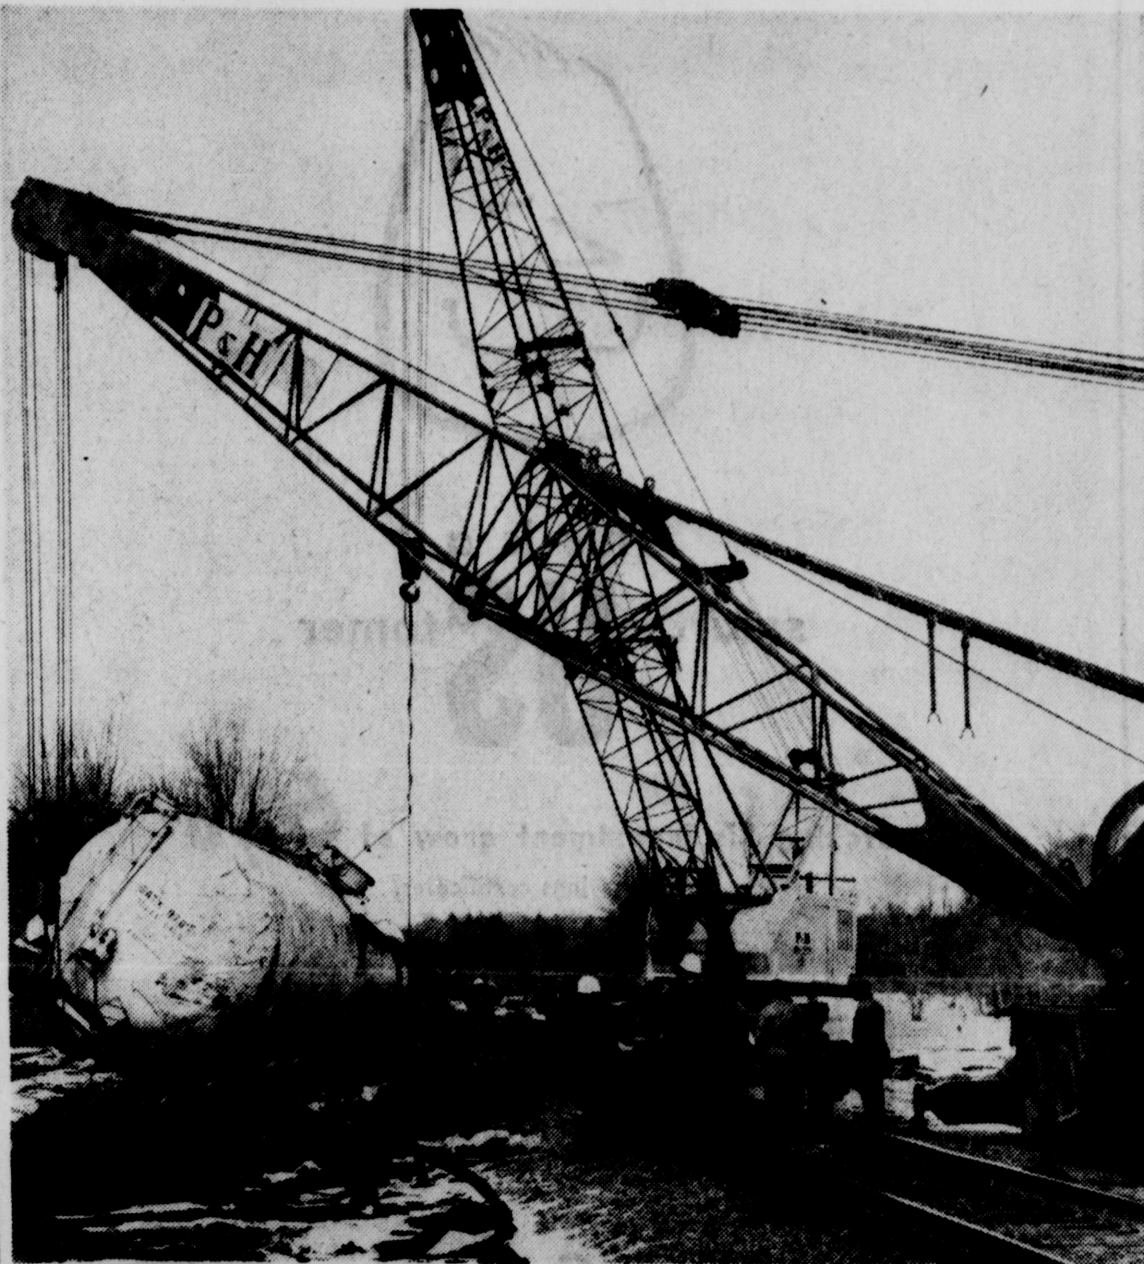

Earlier this month in Houston, Leary was convicted of smuggling three ounces of marijuana across the U.S.-Mexico border concealed in his 18-year-old daughter's underwear.

The California case dated back to Dec. 26, 1968, when Leary, his wife, Rosemary, 34, and son, John, 20, were arrested in Laguna Beach.

Police said they found LSD in a station wagon after officers observed the vehicle illegally parked. Mrs. Leary and John were sentenced to six months and 90 days in jail, respectively.

Showdown Stage for Abort Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The long-frustrated effort to liberalize New York's strict abortion law moved to a showdown in the State Senate today—on St. Patrick's Day.

And the fact that the abortion debate was scheduled for the day on which Roman Catholics venerate a popular saint became part of the continuing controversy.

"Of course it's a coincidence," snorted Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges. "How silly can you be?"

But Democratic Sen. Seymour Thaler, who claims that Brydges has been plotting to block abortion reform, saw it another way. "I think it's more than coincidence—it's offensive," Thaler declared.

All eyes turned toward the Senate as it prepared to debate and vote—for the first time—on a bill that would rescind the abortion standard that has prevailed in this state for 87 years.

But the events leading to the showdown vote were muddled by contradictory turns and charges, and nobody was willing to predict the outcome.

As the law now stands, abortions are permitted only when necessary to save the life of the pregnant woman. There are strict penalties for violating the law.

Until a few weeks ago, the legislature was talking about two major changes espoused by assemblymen—repealing the entire abortion law outright or adding several specific grounds for legal abortions, including probable physical or mental deformity of the fetus.

At that point, Brydges, long opposed to abortion-law changes, let it be known that he had instructed his staff to draft a "compromise" bill. The product was the measure to be voted upon today.

The bill would repeal the present life-saving restriction, thus leaving the decision to the woman and her physician. It would permit only licensed physicians to perform abortions and would retain the present penalties for illegal abortions.

After sidestepping any commitment for several days, Brydges told The Associated Press, "I'm voting against it."

Brydges, a Roman Catholic father of seven, explained that he never intended to support any bill but was so alarmed by the prospect of total repeal that he felt obliged to intervene.

Thaler, a liberal Democrat from Queens, contended that the Brydges "compromise" was deliberately styled to be so permissive that it would be bound to go down to defeat. That, he said, was what Brydges intended all along.

Thaler also maintained that there was an undeclared agreement between Brydges and his Assembly counterpart, Speaker Perry B. Duryea, to end the 1970 abortion debate with today's Senate action. In previous years, efforts to revise the law had originated in the Assembly and had failed so narrowly that there had been hope for some positive action this year.

Duryea indicated he would be disinclined to bring one of the other abortion bills to the floor of his house if the Senate voted no. "I rather doubt that there would be any further action in the Assembly," he said.

Senate Opponents of Carswell May String Debate Past Easter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of G. Harrold Carswell's Supreme Court nomination are talking about stringing out Senate debate past Easter '71 hopes of "awakening the country" against confirmation.

Democratic Sens. Philip A. Hart of Michigan and Birch Bayh of Indiana in saying Monday a vote probably would not come until after the March 29 Easter weekend, denied again any intention to filibuster.

The two anti-Carswell leaders added they didn't expect lengthy debate to uncover any new evidence to further support charges that the Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge has a racist background and a mediocre judicial record.

"We've got a solid case right now" anyway, Bayh told a newsman after the debate officially started Monday. Hart added that he hoped extended debate would develop "bits and pieces" that would arouse the citizenry to his side.

He said the first day of debate yielded one such development—a statement by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, the nomination's floor manager, that mediocre people probably were entitled to be represented on the bench.

AND HERE'S THE PITCH — Adding a bit of high fashion to a favorite American sport, film star Sophia Loren — modestly dressed in over-sized spectacles and a midi coat — winds up to toss first ball as she opens sports competition for children at a stadium outside Rome, Italy. (UPI CABLE PHOTO).

Although the Nebraska Republican said he did not consider Carswell mediocre, he added in a radio-television interview:

"The President appoints these people and even if he were mediocre, there are a lot of mediocre judges and people and lawyers. Aren't they entitled to a little representation and a little chance? We can't have all Brandeises and Cardozas and Frankfurters and stuff like that. I doubt we can. I doubt we want to."

"If that (statement) doesn't awaken the country, what will?" declared Hart.

Bayh said he believed opponents have a "good old fighting chance to defeat Carswell. It's going to be a lot closer than people think," he added.

Bayh was the opposition leader against Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., President Nixon's first nominee for the vacancy that has existed since Abe Fortas resigned under fire last May.

The Haynsworth nomination was defeated 55 to 45 last November after charges the South Carolina judge may have violated judicial ethics.

Carswell, whom Nixon elevated from the federal district bench to the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals last June, was nominated to the Supreme Court in January.

Bayh declined to estimate the opposition strength Monday but indicated it hadn't slipped since an explosives permit.

—Permit local governments to adopt stricter rules over use and possession of explosives.

—Limit to the state industrial commissioner the power to issue licenses. He would have the power to screen applicants.

School Boss on Ottinger: Accusation Way Off Base

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist contends that U.S. Rep. Richard L. Ottinger was way off base in accusing the State Education Department of "bureaucratic bungling" in administering federally aided programs.

Ottinger, of Pleasantville, Westchester County, said at a news conference Monday that "bureaucratic bungling and mismanagement" by department officials were costing local school systems millions of dollars.

The congressman said his information was based on a secret management review by the U.S. Office of Education.

But Nyquist claimed that "the review team was impressed with the high quality and commitment of the staff members of the department."

"The outstanding competence of the staff was evident at all times throughout the review," Nyquist quoted the report as saying.

The commissioner commented in a statement released at the Capitol just as Ottinger was completing his news conference there.

Ottinger told reporters he had brought the review to light in the hope that Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature would seek to ascertain whether the Education Department had created "an extra corps of paper-shufflers" contributing to costly red tape and bureaucracy.

The congressman said the report had been revealed to him last week.

Nyquist said Ottinger was evidently referring to a preliminary draft of a report summarizing views expressed in conversations last May among representatives of the State Education Department, the U.S. Office of Education and some local school districts.

"The quotes Congressman Ottinger includes in his statement are not findings of the federal review team, but are comments made by some of the local rep-representatives," Nyquist maintained. Among other things, Ottinger said the review team had found that state reviews of local applications for federal aid were "cumbersome and untrustworthy" and that delays in Albany were forcing local districts to borrow money and then pay interest on the loans for which they were not reimbursed.

Nyquist said the department "must exercise great care" to see that specific federal purposes are being met. The only way to do this, he added, is to review each application carefully.

The congressman and the commissioner also were far apart on the number of Education Department personnel who administer funds under the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) of 1965. Ottinger said the number had "swelled" from 326 in 1966 to 767 this year. But Nyquist said there were 151 positions in 1966 and 246 now.

"We can only surmise," the commissioner said, "that the figures quoted by the congressman for this year's personnel include employees for many other federal programs than the ESEA."

Rocky Asks Bomb Curbs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Responding to recent bombings in New York City, Gov. Rockefeller has called on the legislature to impose stringent restrictions on use, sale and storage of dangerous explosives.

"The recent tragic bombings in New York City underscore the need to strengthen laws at every level to help prevent dangerous explosives from falling into the hands of those who would terrorize the community," the governor said.

Meanwhile the Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a bill that would make possession of an incendiary bomb or "Molotov cocktail" a felony punishable by up to seven years in jail.

Rockefeller's proposed bill would, among other things, increase from seven to 25 years the maximum prison sentence for possessing explosives with intent to harm persons or property.

It also would:

—Make it a felony to give false information in applying for an explosives permit.

—Permit local governments to adopt stricter rules over use and possession of explosives.

—Limit to the state industrial commissioner the power to issue licenses. He would have the power to screen applicants.

At least three persons died March 6 in a Greenwich Village townhouse that was destroyed by dynamite police said was being used in home-made bombs.

Supports Abortion Method in Lecture

By TIM SCHUSTER

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON—A representative of Dutchess County Planned Parenthood espoused the repeal of all abortion laws Monday night at Bard College on the eve of the state legislature's vote on abortion reform.

Margaret Myers, professor emerita of Economics at Vassar College, told the assembled crowd at Sottery Hall that the choice in such matters should be left to the individual.

While not settling on abortion as the best method of controlling the world's burgeoning population, she felt it preferable to bringing the hundreds of thousands of unwanted children into the world that would otherwise result.

Other points made by the eminent professor in an entertaining talk included: "The idea of getting married just because of pregnancy is on the way out."

"Men should not have to prove their masculinity by producing a row of little children."

"Education should stress responsible parenthood, instead of sinful sex."

"In India, the government is giving away cash payments and transistor radios to men who become sterilized."

"Women should prepare themselves for something besides having children, and they spend too much time 'ironing ruffles on curtains.'"

Mrs. Myers offered concrete examples of the harm that befalls those in ignorance of birth control procedures, citing the case of one woman in Poughkeepsie who lived on relief for 18 years, had 17 children, and finally died at age 42 from a heart attack.

At least three of the sons went to prison, as well as the father, and most of the rest of the children had to be raised by agencies, as the grandmother was judged unfit for the job due to belated soliciting.

She also talked of a survey taken in a housing project with about 150 families. The results showed that families on welfare averaged five children, where those not on welfare averaged two children.

The Planned Parenthood organization endeavors to disseminate information to anyone seeking it on birth control. This advice is given to anyone not a minor, whether married or single.

Mrs. Myers offered some statistics on birth control devices, showing the failure rate for the intra-uterine device at between 20 and 30 per thousand per year; pills averaging a failure rate of one per thousand per year; and diaphragms probably the most reliable.

She decried attempts at the rhythm method, repeating a cliché, "What do they call a woman on the rhythm method? Pregnant."

As far as male responsibility, she had little faith in prophylactics because it is "up to the man," and she endorsed voluntary sterility, but said it is sometimes difficult to find a surgeon who will perform the necessary vasectomy.

"High schools kids seem to think that it's not 'real love' if they take any precautions," said the professor, protesting that the great American myth seems to have sex solving all problems.

After citing the numerous contributing factors to the increased burden the population was placing on the available land and resources, she came to the conclusion that planning of the population is the only viable solution.

She gave as an example the program that is being undertaken in Japan, where most families are restricting children to one or two as a result of a program introduced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur after World War II.

"I am amazed as some of my intelligent friends asking if the United States really is overcrowded with those wide open spaces available," said Mrs. Myers.

"Many Hudson River towns are drinking the chlorinated sewerage of another town today; we are running out of many minerals; there are many children starving in this country; and we don't have enough schools, hospitals, doctors, or social workers," she stated.

The wide open spaces are necessary for water sheds, oxygen producing living plants, and grazing for meat-producing. The professor also mentioned the clouds of poisonous polluted air that sometimes carry thousands of miles.

"Mahatma Gandhi said that abstinence (from sex) is the answer," said this advocate of long range planning, "but I don't believe, that strongly in self-control."

Ellenville NAACP Backs Democratic Candidates

By SHANE CROSBY

ELENVILLE

In a spirited joint meeting of more than 125 blacks and Spanish-Americans here Monday night, Ellenville NAACP placed its support behind the two Democratic candidates for village trustee in today's election.

NAACP President Clarence McGill, speaking through a translator to a gathering of Spanish-American voters who joined with the association's regular membership, announced the support for George P. Halbig and David Kramer, citing the two candidates' stands for public housing for senior citizens and low income groups.

McGill headed the lively two hour session where both Democratic candidates offered their platforms for public housing and where members of the Democratic party joined in the discussion along with Seymour Krieger, brother of Ellenville Trustee Rivan Krieger and a housing official in Woodridge.

Voting, which got underway at 12 noon today, is scheduled to end at 9 p.m. in the village municipal building. Both sides are calling for a large turnout, with car pools and babysitters available and with the NAACP making arrangements to have Spanish-English translators at the building throughout the voting hours.

The only comment received during the meeting from the Republican candidates, incumbent DeWitt Clinton and Mrs. Sondra Lonstein, came from Mrs. Lonstein who sent a letter to McGill saying that after having talked at an NAACP meeting last week, she declined to meet with the joint group to avoid "an additional confrontation."

McGill briefly discussed last week's session before the same group minus the Spanish-Americans, saying the members were told by Clinton and Mrs. Lonstein that "public housing has been a failure in New York State." Lonstein called that comment "an untrue statement," and named a list of seven cities and towns in the state that have "successful public housing" similar to that which is being sought for the minority groups in Ellenville through the Urban Renewal Agency.

Calling on the blacks and Spanish-Americans to "put the right people in office," McGill said, "we have two votes for public housing" in the voting for Kramer and Halbig. McGill cautioned the group, "do not be distressed if it takes another year" before the association's aim of having support on the Village Board, and said, "it is a start."

Speaking of the successful public low income housing he has seen elsewhere in the state, McGill said, "We can have this type of housing in Ellenville if we vote the right people in office."

Woodridge resident Krieger also called for the election of the Democratic candidates and added, "no matter what happens (today), do not stop. You must have good housing in a decent community."

"You must know your enemies, and you all know what you must do with your enemies at the polls—vote them out," said Krieger with a swish of his fist over his shoulder.

The session was marred by only one incident, when an unidentified woman representing the League of Women Voters said she could not demonstrate the proper way to use the voting machine to the group after McGill had stated the NAACP support for the Democrats. She said that "in all good conscience, I cannot do it. We are non-partisan," she said. After a discussion of the matter, the woman agreed to demonstrate, but only after it was stated to all in English and Spanish that she was not siding with either party.

The issue of low income and senior citizen housing to replace the dilapidated quarters seen around the village has been raised as the major campaign point in today's contest.

Rhinebeck Planning To Combat Vandalism

RHINEBECK—Rhinebeck Supervisor William Allen today spoke of plans to incorporate a better working relationship between Rhinecliff residents and state and county police to combat vandalism.

Allen told The Freeman that he had spoken to state police, who have indicated they would attend an informational meeting in Rhinecliff to acquaint the citizens with necessary procedures of arrest and follow-up.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Department has also been instrumental in providing increased patrols in the area.

"It seems a shame to have a handful of kids causing so much trouble," said Allen, "and it would be too bad if we had to provide a paid patrolman just for a few kids, but some of the people in Rhinecliff are scared to death."

County Dems Meet Wednesday; Glazer, Johnson Chances Good

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Ulster County Democrats will put forth two more candidates for consideration for nomination at its unofficial county convention Wednesday 8 p.m. at George Washington School.

The are Ulster County Community College Professor Richard B. Glazer, who seeks the nod to be candidate for Congress and Kingston insurance investigator Charles "Mike" Johnson who is a candidate for the nomination for coroner.

"There is no question that he (Glazer) will be the candidate for the 28th Congressional District," Ulster Democratic Chairman Aaron E. Klein said Monday. Klein called a meeting at his Kingston office Saturday of Democratic County chairmen from the district to meet with and interview Glazer.

"He received fine acceptance," Klein said, adding that Glazer's background in many areas was impressive and extensive and that he is a man of "many facets."

Klein cautioned, however, that the "door is always open" for other candidates should they wish to make their intentions known.

Speaking of Johnson, the candidate for the nomination for coroner, Klein emphasized that his present work is investigative, and that such talent lends itself to the duties of a coroner.

In addition to nominating candidates for Congress and coroner, the Ulster County Democratic Committee, will, at its unofficial convention, nominate candidates for the posts of state senator, assemblyman, county treasurer and district attorney.

Unofficial candidates for the posts include the following: West Shokan lawyer David Lenefsky for state senator; former Wawarsing Supervisor and present County Legislator George Barthel for state assembly; Joseph F. Saccoman, Kingston insurance broker, for county treasurer and Ellenville Attorney Alex Nirenberg for district attorney.

The Democratic nominees will face a full slate of Republican incumbents except for Francis J. Vogt, district attorney candidate who will replace Joseph

P. Torraca, the present DA who does not seek reelection. Incumbents include Congressman Hamilton Fish

Jr., State Senator Jay P. Rolison, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, Treasurer Fred C. DuBois and Coroner Arthur C. Chipp.

Johnson, who came to Kingston from Albany and Texas about a year and one-half ago, has worked in the campaigns of John F. Kennedy and in Democratic contests in Texas.

A graduate of the University of Houston, he gained basic medical experience in the Coast Guard Reserve and feels that a person with "insight" into accident cases is needed for the post of coroner. He feels as Klein indicated, that his position as an insurance investigator qualifies him in this area. Married and the father of two children, he has been active in the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Onteora Residents To Vote on Resolution

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

BOICEVILLE

In recent years (and probably when they have been needed most), more and more people have backed off from volunteering themselves as candidates for school boards. In an effort to interest additional people to make the run for trustee seats, the Onteora Board of Education is calling for a voters' referendum on May 6 to cut B of E tenure from five to three years.

Meeting Monday night, the OCS board unanimously approved vice president W. Jack Kahn's motion to present to school district voters a resolution reducing the service time of board members. It is Kahn's thinking that people who "might not want to commit themselves" to a five year seat, would look more favorably on the prospect of seeking a shorter three year term.

If voters approve the change at the annual district meeting and budget vote May 6, trusteeship time of service will be cut. Such approval at the polls, however, will have no effect on the two board vacancies to be filled this year. Up for bids are the five year terms of Ellen Erikson and Richard O. Langham.

Should they or someone else seek the vacancies to be filled, the candidates elected would serve five years, since board tenure cannot be changed in advance without voter approval.

The meeting at which the new school budget will be voted on and board members elected has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 6 from 2 to 9 p.m. A second referendum on the ballot will ask for authorization to sell the Hurley No. 6 school and property, a building no longer in use.

Registration Day for voters will be Thursday, April 30 between 2 and 9 p.m., and a public hearing on the budget is set for Wednesday, April 22 at 8 p.m. in the High School Cafeteria at Boiceville. Prospective candidates for the Board of Education must file petitions with the District Clerk by April 22.

Monday's meeting also saw the Onteora board taking action to help solve its problem of replacing resigning Dr. Harold Snyder as Superintendent of Schools. With Snyder leaving at the end of the school year, the board appointed two educational consultants to assist in recruiting a replacement. They are Dr. William Hageny and Dr. George Sullivan of State University of New York at New Paltz.

As consultants, they will receive a fee of $1,300 plus additional clerical costs of up to $200 to aid them in their search. Their time table deadline to help fill the top administrative position at Onteora is May 19.

In what seemed to some observers an unprecedented move, the board also gave its unanimous vote of confidence to vice president W. Jack Kahn, who serves as Onteora's representative to the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Service (BOCES).

Kahn, who noted it was "difficult to split (my) allegiance" to OCS and BOCES, announced his intention of voting against the BOCES budget.

On a motion by trustee Richard O. Langham, the OCS board voted to "express its confidence in Kahn," as well as its confidence in any "actions he takes in opposing the BOCES budget." Langham stressed the fact that the decision must have been a difficult one for Kahn, who has always sympathized with the problems of BOCES.

While Kahn said he remains convinced that BOCES is a good organization and much needed — and that he believes very strongly in their program — he cannot see his way clear to lending approval to their budget as Onteora's representative at a time when OCS itself faces a gloomy financial picture in Albany. "I will vote against the BOCES budget," he said, "because I am not happy with it."

When only five defendants showed up, Judge Louis B. Garripio ordered the seven arrested and raised bond for each to $75,000. Their previous bonds ranged from $5,000 to $20,000.

Judge Garripio also set June 6 as the new hearing date. The New York townhouse hit by the explosion belonged to Miss Wilkerson's father. Police have said the building was being used as a bomb manufacturing place by the SDS faction.

Besides Miss Wilkerson and Miss Boudin, those failing to appear in court Monday included: Celeste McCullough, 22; Bernard Dohrn, 27, and Judith Clark, 20, all of Chicago, and Judith Cohn, 24, of Milwaukee and Linda Evans, 22, of Fort Dodge, Iowa.

He said more arrests were expected in the case.

There's more to comfort than just heat. That's why the really modern comfort system is readily adaptable to central air conditioning, too. A modern OIL system fills the bill perfectly.

Another thing oil does is to heat water faster than any other fuel - so fast you'll never run out no matter how much you use.

And, of course, with it all, oil heat is still as clean, safe and dependable as ever . . . and even more economical because of improved-efficiency heating and cooling units. Before you decide on any modern home, get all the facts on the really modern comfort system. Call your heating oil dealer.

Health Brutality Exposure Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scathing report by the American Public Health Association says the nation's medical care system is broken down with millions of persons exposed to health brutality each day.

"Circumstances that can only be called health brutality pervade the lives of millions of American people who live in communities that seem designed to break the human spirit," the report said.

It was prepared by the current APHA president, Dr. Paul B. Cornely, and the immediate past president, Dr. Lester Breslow, after the two visited six communities across the nation last year.

The APHA is a private organization representing 18,000 doctors and public health workers.

The report offered case studies that included:

—A 59-year-old Mexican-American grandmother in a Houston, Tex., barrio who is ineligible for welfare or Social Security and must support herself and her 2-year-old grandson on $10 a week from her son.

—Several hundred predominantly Mexican-American farm workers in Tulare County, Calif., who sicken each year after being sprayed with pesticides from crop dusting planes.

—A 53-year-old American Indian veteran of World War II living in a shack in Great Falls, Mont., and supporting himself, six children and one grandchild on a small pension and "what we can scrounge from salvage in a junk yard."

—An "uncooperative," chronic alcoholic who carried a card live day in and day out in conditions we would not let our animals endure.

And the system of care for people with disease associated with such conditions seems mainly to obstruct their receiving the care that is needed," the report said.

It describes ghetto dwellers in rat-infested, overpriced apartments with nonfunctioning plumbing that menaced health. When disease strikes, the report said, there often are no local physicians or clinics; public hospitals, miles away and poorly served by transportation, offer long waits and impersonal care; welfare-linked medical assistance is too frequently unavailable for those most needy.

The two physicians founded 54,000 hungry families in the Kenwood-Oakland neighborhood of Southside Chicago where the infant mortality rate is an astonishing 45 for every 1,000 babies born.

"One old lady told us how she watched her baby die while waiting three hours for care in an emergency room at Cook County Ill. Hospital," they said. "The agencies that are supposed to deal with the problems appear to exist mainly as enforcers of rules that are carefully framed legalistic subterfuges to avoid providing needed services," the report said.

The sixth community visited was Washington, D.C., where the two physicians described the Potomac River as totally polluted. The two physicians founded

Every Resigns As UCCC Trustee

STONE RIDGE trustee was due to expire on June 30 of this year.

In informing Dr. William J. Hagerty, board chairman, of his decision to resign, Every said: "The future of the college will always be of interest to me, and it is with profound regret that I find it necessary to make this decision."

Every's nine-year term as trustee for Canfield Supply Company in Kingston, first was appointed a trustee by the former Ulster County Board of Supervisors on April 16, 1963.

Every had served three terms as treasurer of the Board of Trustees and at the time of his resignation was chairman of the board's Sites and Facilities Committee.

St. Patrick's Day

Today is St. Patrick's Day, the anniversary of the patron saint of Ireland. This saint was well-loved everywhere and many legends have grown up in connection with his career.

One of the better known of all legends is how he was responsible for the Shamrock becoming the familiar Irish emblem. One day a group of his followers came to him and admitted that it was difficult for them to believe in the doctrine of the Holy Trinity. Plucking a leaf from the Shamrock, St. Patrick held it before them, bidding them to behold the living example of this "three-in-one." The simple beauty of this explanation convinced them and from that day the Shamrock has been revered throughout Ireland.

In observance of St. Patrick's Day and as a salute to Ireland, green is displayed everywhere. The "wearing of the green" signifies no creed or race as many other nationalities join in the celebration and hold social functions.

Primarily a religious holiday, special church services are held in his memory.

St. Patrick overcame many perils of his time and made many friends. The Irish look back to him with reverence and affection because his courage and cheerfulness have been handed on to so many of his followers.

Buyer's Bill of Rights

To President Nixon's "Buyer's Bill of Rights," the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has added two basic ones — the right to quality and integrity. The original rights enunciated by the President were the right to safety, to be heard, to choose and to receive adequate information.

Codes to aid consumers have been in use at various times and with varying results. The chamber's code, for instance, also included support for simplification of product warranties, for efforts to seek consumer views "from the earliest stages of product planning" and for the establishment of "effective channels for receiving and acting on consumer complaints and suggestions."

All these proposals are fine. Except that the code is strictly voluntary. Which means its effectiveness will be spotty. Merchants who usually give the consumer a break will continue to do so. Others can be expected to continue to cut corners. Unfortunately, that is human nature.

Legislation to empower class action — the right to file joint damage suits for damages sustained by shabby merchandise — has been introduced in Congress. The Nixon administration would permit such actions after the Justice Department has concluded a case against a manufacturer or trade association. That is the more just approach, and one that will benefit the consumer most. For after it has been established legally that damage has been done, the consumer's chances of collecting are much greater.

Priority on Pollution

Basement inventors take note:

Beginning in February, the U. S. Patent Office began speeding up its handling of patent applications for devices aimed at cleaning up the environment. Applications for pollution-control devices will now be processed in six to eight months instead of the usual three years.

The purpose, says Patent Commissioner William E. Schuyler Jr., is to make available for use as soon as possible a backlog of some 11,500 recent inventions designed to clean up the nation's land, air and water.

Every little bit helps in the fight against pollution.

David Lawrence Says States, Cities Must Enforce Their Laws Vigorously

WASHINGTON — A wave of bombings of buildings and homes in different parts of the country has aroused additional apprehension in a period already characterized by widespread uneasiness in America. People are asking: who is behind the bombings? Will the government catch the culprits? Whose responsibility is it for detection — the federal government or the states or cities?

Knowledgeable persons in the government here say that the states could do more to investigate not only the bombings but all kinds of disorders, and that too much dependence is placed on the federal government. Local politicians would prefer to put the blame on Washington for whatever happens, especially on delicate questions involving racial issues.

There undoubtedly is a relationship between the bombings and various extremists who have been making protests on public questions. It is one way to draw attention to a revolutionary spirit and to try to make government hesitant to take particular steps in dealing with recalcitrants.

So far as the case in Bel Air, Md., is concerned, there is reason to believe that the automobile which was exploded was carrying passengers — in possession of sticks of dynamite — who wanted in some way to call attention to the trial of Rap Brown.

Bombings took place in three different locations in New York on March 12. Efforts have been made to blame such bombings on white people and to make a racial issue out of it. But the authorities here say that in due time the facts will be disclosed, and it will be revealed that the bombings were part of a deliberate plan to make a spectacular display of force in order to intimidate those who didn't want to see the Rap Brown trial in Bel Air postponed or transferred to some other location.

There are indications, too, that state law-enforcement agencies expect the federal government to do most of the investigating, but it's a federal violation only if it can be proved that the bombs were transported across state lines. This is not always easy to establish to the satisfaction of the courts. If the states enforced their laws vigorously, they could collect evidence that would be more helpful in prosecuting those responsible for the bombing incidents.

Bombings are going on in many countries throughout the world. It's a favorite device on the part of minority groups and is closely associated with guerrilla warfare as well as student and other "demonstrations" on sociological controversies. Use of explosives by terrorists has been fairly common over the years in other countries, but now it has been adopted by the extremist organizations in America as a means of getting publicity for certain causes. One of the tricks frequently employed is to make it appear that "activist" whites have been engaging in the bomb warfare, but authorities here say that, for the most part, the explosions have been carried out by members of organizations on the black side of the argument.

While federal legislation has been introduced to strengthen the law against crimes committed across state lines, there is obviously need for much more vigorous enforcement of laws by states and cities. The federal government is anxious to cooperate in every way, but cannot do the whole job. It would appear that the use of dynamite for bombing purposes in cities is very likely to increase in order to frighten the citizens of many communities and to try to create the impression that civil rights are not being granted to black people.

The underlying object of many of the black extremist organizations is to fan the flames of race hatred. They believe this is one way to help them raise money and also to attract attention to their own cause. Reckless statements are heard at their meetings and the main theme is to blame the white people and urge that violence be used against them.

There is a law passed by Congress which says it is a federal crime to cross state lines to incite riots and disorders. But few of those who have violated it have thus far been brought to the bars of justice. There has been a reluctance to deal with individuals who have been guilty of what their lawyers defend as merely "intemperate speech." But sooner or later the full effect of meetings that are designed to incite persons in attendance to commit acts of violence must come under the scrutiny of both federal and state authorities.

Racket-Weary People Are Mobilizing Against the Mafia

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA) — There are a number of reasons why the Mafia has thrived for so long in the nation. But maybe the principal one is that they are masters of the ugly art of intimidation.

For example: Racketeers weasel into a neighborhood. They set up an absurd power structure which influences hundreds of thousands of people. And to show they're serious, some bombs may be tossed or some critics sent floating face down in a sewer drain.

In time, the bombs cease and so do the murders. Terror is not forever needed. The threat of it suffices. And so for 40 years, some 3,000 to 5,000 Cosa Nostra thugs have been able to hold population centers totaling 75 million Americans in the grip of illegality.

Because people are afraid to fight back.

A new day, however, may be dawning on this nightmare. Some people are cringing no more.

On New York's grubby waterfront, for instance, dozens of longshoremen now go to work wearing lapel buttons which read: "Fight Organized Crime." It's no small gesture. Racketeers have subjugated the waterfront for decades, and dissidents risk unemployment and even death.

Still, here the men are, wearing crimefighting buttons. "We're not looking for trouble," says one for many. "But we're Americans and we don't like the rackets. And we'll say it to anybody's face in town."

Says the button designer, Ralph Salerno: "The button is just a beginning. It's a curiosity. But it can get people thinking together. That's what we need to beat the Mafia — collective action. It's damn sure we'll never beat them if we're not all together."

Salerno should know. He tried for two decades to beat the New York mafiosi — "practically alone." As supervisor of detectives in New York's rackets bureau, he says lack of a co-ordinated rackets attack left him feeling "like it was just me against them — with no one else caring."

Now retired and serving as a consultant to the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, he has decided to get some help from the American public.

It's not an easy thing. Much of the American public is afraid of the Mafia, and much of it also has become apathetically conditioned to Salerno says. "For the most part, the public has a feeling of contempt for the rackets. But the things people see in everyday life tend to minimize this contempt. People look around and they see crime being committed by their own elected officials, even their own policemen. So they get the feeling that, as bad as the Mafia is, it may not be much worse than many 'legitimate' groups. 'Some people like the things the Mafia controls — such as prostitution or playing numbers. And their rationale is that the Mafia is only allowing what the law is too hypocritical to allow.'"

But Ralph Salerno believes the nation is still ready for an all-out assault on organized crime. He says government, finally, has taken serious and meaningful measures. So the Mafia-watcher has begun the crimefighting button campaign. He plans to follow it with billboards, advertisements and the organization of community activists.

Will it work? Will racket-weary people join together

"I hope so," Salerno says. "Because if they do, and if they can sustain their anger. I think the country will destroy the Mafia in the next five years."

Jack Anderson Says Mendel Rivers Feeds Quail To Military-Industrial Chiefs

WASHINGTON — By its "exaltation of doddering old men and outmoded ways, the once mighty Congress has frittered away much of the power it once wielded over national affairs. But there are still a few curmudgeons on Capitol Hill who can bring official Washington to a virtual standstill over the least triviality."

Such a man is Lucius Mendel Rivers, the sometimes boozy Congressman from Charleston, S.C. With his flowing white hair and erect bearing, Rivers cuts an imposing figure as he presides over the House Armed Services Committee, the first bastion of the military-industrial complex.

So influential is Rivers with the military brass that he has converted his home town from a charming, sleepy coastal city into a major military center. And any occasion of importance to Rivers is sure to bring the top military figures in the country to pay homage.

A planeload of brass hats, for instance, was flown at public expense to attend the unveiling of a heroic bust of Congressman Rivers in North Charleston on a street named, of course, Rivers Avenue. He brought an equally glittering assemblage to the tiny South Carolina town of St. Stephens to help celebrate "L. Mendel Rivers Day."

The chairman's annual quail luncheon on Capitol Hill is another great even in his life, and the mighty in Washington respond accordingly. A banquet room in the marble Rayburn Building is set aside for the occasion, and a grateful Charleston businessman ship in enough quail and sherry soup to feed about 700 VIPs.

The 1970 luncheon, held on a rainy day last week, was attended by so many bigwigs that the police on duty reported they had never seen so many Cadillac limousines at one time. During a 10-minute period, my associate Britton Hume counted 22 limousines.

The guests included four Cabinet members, not to mention the lesser Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. There were also such disparate dignitaries as Judge Clement Haynsworth, the Supreme Court appointee who was turned down by the Senate, and Paul Dietzel, the University of South Carolina football coach.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff were there, of course, resplendent in their military braid. Top executives from all the major military contractors also turned up. "Everybody who is anybody in the military industrial complex who would come, I invited," Rivers proudly told the gathering.

The benediction was given by Carl McIntire, the right-wing radio evangelist whose bombs-away approach to foreign policy closely parallels Rivers' own views.

Into the crush of limousines on the circle in front of the Rayburn Building rumbled a 1947 Dodge sedan driven by a young man with multichop sideburns.

He was immediately stopped by police who ordered him to move on. There was an unpleasant exchange, and the young man demanded a parking space in one of the choice spots near the limousines of Attorney General John Mitchell and Secretary of Defense Mel Laird.

To the amazement of the chauffeurs, who gaped in astonishment, the young man was permitted to wheel his jalopy into a spot just a few steps from the front door of the building.

It turned out that he was none other than Lucius Mendel Rivers Jr.

Big-Game Hunt

The Pentagon is investigating charges that Army personnel went on a big game hunt in Alaska, hitting the trails in an Army vehicle and using Army two-way radios to track their quarry.

The hunters allegedly falsified shipping documents to bring back their trophies at public expense to their home base at Utah's Dugway Proving Ground.

The allegations were made by the National Association of Government Employees in a letter to Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor. The letter, obtained by this column, charges that at least four Dugway employees made an unnecessary trip to Ft. Greeley, Alaska, so they could shoot moose and caribou last August.

Although the letter doesn't name the persons involved and the investigation has been classified "confidential," this column has learned the names of two of the alleged offenders.

One is William Woods, a top Dugway official, who headed the Alaskan excursion which was made, ostensibly, to dismantle some equipment. The other is Sgt. LeRoy Mosher, also from Dugway.

Mosher refused to discuss the incident at all, but Woods acknowledged that he had gone hunting while on an Army mission in Alaska last summer. He had been accompanied on the safari, he said, by two men from Dugway and two others from Ft. Greeley.

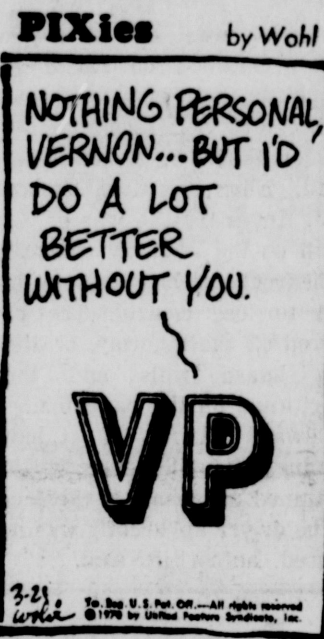

Woods said the party shot four moose and one caribou. Four sets of horns were shipped back to Dugway in Army containers at government expense, he admitted. But he denied that any Army radios had been used. The use of a military vehicle was justified, he said, because the weekend trip had also been an essential Army mission.

Right-Wing Subsidy

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., in replying to this column's report that he has been receiving a $20,000 a year retainer, half the rent for his $520-a-month Washington apartment and the use of credit cards from Technicolor, Inc., took comfort from the fact that Senate Ethics Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., last month approved the deal.

Stennis said he saw no "conflict of interest" in the arrangement, although Technicolor has a $3.9 million government contract to handle all filming at the Cape Kennedy space center. This column already had accepted Murphy's statement that he scrupulously keeps his nose out of the contract negotiations.

The point of our story, however, is that Technicolor is the personal domain of Patrick J. Frawley Jr., who has used corporate funds to promote right-wing causes and to influence national policies. It remains for California voters to decide whether they want their Senator subsidized by a right-wing extremist.

Study in Maxi Confusion

Laos Casualties: Great Garble

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Come along on a five-day merry-go-round discussion of U.S. casualties in Laos, and try not to get dizzy.

The ride begins on a Friday afternoon in Key Biscayne, Fla., where an important White House official is giving a background briefing on President Nixon's official statement regarding the degree of our involvement in the war in Laos.

When the briefing ended, some reporters were confused about a total casualty figure that the official had used. For some five minutes, he returned to the microphone and sought to clarify it.

Technically, the clarified figures are still for "background only," but they have been kicked around so much in this capital that they are now common currency.

What the official said was that "something less" than 200 Americans had been killed in Laos from 1962 through 1969, and that less than 200 (actually 193) have been reported to the International Control Commission which is supposed to oversee Laotian "neutrality." That means they may be either dead, captured, lost, or even hiding out.

The White House official went on to say that of this grand total of less than 400, "something less" than 50 civilians had been killed or were in the missing category. Curiously, reporters present there made no use of this highly significant information.

Two days later, a newspaper story appeared stating that a Capt. Joseph Bush, a U.S. Army officer, had been killed in Laos. That afternoon, a White House press aide, Gerald Warren met with newsmen in Florida to concede Bush had been killed on the ground in Laos. He said his death came as a result of North Vietnamese gunfire from commandos assaulting a Laotian government camp "behind enemy lines."

The aide said further that 26 U.S. civilians (one a dependent) had been killed or were missing in the 1962-69 period. And he noted that the White House spokesman of Friday had described as "airmen" all those in the civilian category. His recollection was correct.

Later, however, Warren indicated the dead U.S. civilians had not necessarily all been killed in the air. And there was a suggestion that some who thus died were not "airmen" but "civilians" passengers in a helicopter that had been shot down.

Then, amid the incredible confusion marking this long Sunday session, reporters began putting queries which assumed that not only Capt. Bush but all the mentioned 26 civilians had been killed, rather than "killed or missing."

Near the briefing's end, Warren himself seemed so confused he accepted the idea all 27 were dead. This was what the public heard.

Next day at the White House, Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler in his usual morning briefing reverted to Warren's original statement — that the 26 civilians were not all killed but killed or missing.

To compound matters, Ziegler in his afternoon briefing that Monday referred to the original Florida briefing by a high official but misstated what the man said. Ziegler recalled him saying

"less than 50 civilians" killed in Laos, when the official actually had said that figure covered "killed and missing." Ziegler also said most of the dead were killed on the ground. Television newsmen that night upped the total of dead U.S. civilians from 26 to "less than 50."

If it be assumed from all this that administration briefers were confused or confusing through four long briefing sessions, the judgment is unassailably correct.

But no glory attached to the performance of the questioning reporters. I read over their queries several times in all the briefings.

In countless instances, they posed questions, they grossly misstated what the briefer had told them just minutes before. Many showed an inability to keep differing categories distinct in their minds. Some seemed unable to do simple addition.

The Nixon administration must bear clear blame for shifting ground and contributing to the chaos. But the press magnified the confusion mightily by its obtuseness. Any doubter need only read the briefing texts here discussed. Warning: It is an exercise in mental torture.

Court Orders Brown To Appear Next Week

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — H. Rap Brown has been ordered to appear in court next Tuesday but his attorney says he doesn't know whether the black militant will be there.

"We have not heard from him," William M. Kunstler said Monday after the trial on arson and inciting to riot charges was postponed again. "and we do not know where he is."

Circuit Court Judge Harry E. Dyer Jr., who granted the postponement, warned there would be no more delays unless Brown himself could convince the bench of the necessity.

Brown lives in New York but there has been no official indication where he is now.

Kunstler had called for an in-widespread fires and sporadic gunfire.

The trial was shifted to Bel Air over Kunstler's objections.

In calling for the postponement, Kunstler said feeling in the country was so deep he "could not attend the funeral of my old friend," Featherstone.

At this point, Kunstler said in an unsteady voice he had lost "a friend of 10 years." With tears in his eyes, Kunstler said to the judge, "I cannot go on any longer."

William B. Yates II, prosecutor from Dorchester County, asserted a further adjournment "is nothing more than judicial blackmail."

Yates condemned what he said was "an open attack on our judicial system" and said Dorchester County wanted to proceed with the trial.

"We are only sorry we have one courthouse to give for the cause of justice," Yates said.

Two of Brown's friends, Ralph E. Featherstone and William Payne, were killed March 9 when a car they were in blew up near Bel Air.

Last Tuesday night, an explosion blew out the side of the Dorchester County Courthouse in Cambridge where Brown originally had been scheduled to be tried on charges stemming from a speech he gave there three years ago before a night of

Some Answers Given On Move for Chaing Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A censored transcript today provided some of the answers behind the latest congressional effort to supply controversial arms to Nationalist China.

It showed Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., almost singlehandedly brought about the House Armed Services Committee approval of a loan to Taiwan (Formosa) of three surplus, conventionally powered, attack submarines.

The Nixon administration did not ask for the subs. It was not

Clashes in India Kill 13 Persons

CALCUTTA (AP) — At least 13 persons were killed today in clashes between rival political parties and labor groups in India's volatile West Bengal State which was paralyzed by a one day general strike. Scores of persons were injured.

The inspector general of the state police, S.M. Ghosh, said members of the militant Marxist Communist party, which called the strike to protest the fall of the state's Communist dominated government Monday night, were among the victims.

The Marxists, the more militant of India's two Communist parties, clashed with trade unionists and political cadres of parties not supporting the strike in a number of places, he said.

Although most of the battles occurred in and around Calcutta, India's largest city, one was reported in Cooch Behar, 200 miles northeast of here.

In Calcutta, Communist mobs armed with bombs, spears and daggers roamed unchecked throughout the city enforcing the strike.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Yours! This Lovely Ruby and Crystal Wedding Bowl

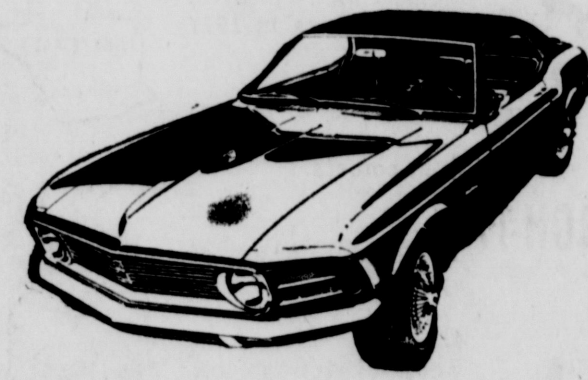

Is our engagement gift to you with our very best wishes for a life of health, happiness and prosperity. Legend has it that the original wedding bowl was placed before the bride and groom and the wedding guests filed past while filling it with money. We, of course have lost track of this colorful custom but the wedding bowl persists as a unique entity... only now, it is given as a centerpiece and treasured as a memento. Our true replica of a Colonial antique is yours without any obligation. Just come in and get yours; it's gift-wrapped and ready. We are in the romantic business of making homes and it is our continuing pleasure to place at least one piece of our homelife furnishings in every new home. We would be delighted to give you yours!

Present this ad at any time prior to wedding date. Also with our compliments...booklets on the care of your furniture and a sample bottle of Guardsman furniture polish.

Children Services — 5 Major Gaps

KINGSTON, Participating in the panel were Dr. Frank Snyder, superintendent of Ontario Schools; Dr. Emeline P. Hayward, director, Mental Health Center; Lawrence Siewers, director, Children's Home of Kingston; Harold Larsen, supervisor of the Ulster County Department of Social Services and Judge Hugh Elwyn, Family Court of Ulster County. The Mental Health Clinic representative said that there is a growing need for treatment facilities for both boys and girls who are unable to function in school settings. According to Larsen, recreational facilities for boys and girls were also felt to be inadequate. Day treatment facilities for emotionally disturbed children was an area of concern expressed by Siewers. He said that these facilities are presently lacking as are facilities for the treatment of emotionally disturbed girls. Judge Elwyn expressed concern over the growing numbers of persons in crisis and discussed the deterioration in many family situations. He also expressed concern over the breakup of families and the resultant strain placed on family finance. He pointed out the cost of raising children to adulthood and questioned the capacity of some of the existing facilities to adequately meet the needs of children within the family structure. He further suggested that some form of population control seems indicated. The extreme cost of treatment programs was emphasized along with the more efficient and less expensive forms of prevention. It was noted that the annual cost of child care in residential treatment centers was between $12,000 and $15,000 and this service for one child and his family was contrasted with the annual allocation made by the Community Chest to the Family Service Center that last year provided counseling services to approximately 160 individuals and families with savings both in human and financial terms. That there are not enough people concerned with problems in our community but those that are concerned have the capacity to make a significant impact was pointed out. The report of this meeting is to be submitted to the full Committee of the Family and Welfare Council which will be meeting soon to discuss priorities of program development refinement and capital building projects.

ATTEND DINNER — Representatives of the emergency room staffs at Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals were guests of Fatum's Ambulance Service at recent dinner held at Roberto's in Port Ewen. The dinner was given as an expression of appreciation to the staffs for their cooperation to ambulance attendants who transport patients. Attending the event were (seated L-R) Miss Margaret Creagan, nurse at Benedictine emergency room, Sister Mary Charles, administrator at Benedictine and Miss Marie Schellhammer, Kingston Hospital emergency room nurse. Standing (L-R) Frank Fatum, an owner of the ambulance service, Mrs. Virginia Burhans, Kingston Hospital nurse and Wilbur Matthews, co-owner of Fatum's.

20 Have Kicked the Habit

KINGSTON, The number who have kicked the cigarette smoking habit for 2½ weeks now totals 20 and there are eight more who may join the abstainers shortly under the Five-Day Plan now in operation. The next alumni meeting of the class will be April 8 at some had problems on what to do with their hands. In answer to many inquiries the next Five-Day Plan class will be held from May 24 to 28 her husband bought her a new TV set because she quit.

This encouraging report was made at a recent progress meeting of the class, with 32 present, by the Rev. Dan W. Schiffbauer, pastor of Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church and director of the Five-Day Plan to Quit Smoking.

The Rev. Mr. Schiffbauer said in addition to the 20 who have not smoked for 2½ weeks, five had only one cigarette or less during this period and three had only one or two puffs.

Among those who have kicked the habit are some who had been smoking from two to five packs a day. The majority were smoking from two to two and a half packs a day, the pastor said.

Several of those who joined the ranks of non-smokers reported weight increases, some showed no gains.

To assist those who might develop a weight problem, Dr. George Wootan presented a health lecture on keeping down calories and using the same will power required to stop smoking. A film, Figures Don't Lie, was shown to stress the dangers of obesity and overweight.

There was a lively discussion with many questions directed to Dr. Wootan and the Rev. Mr. Schiffbauer during the group therapy talks. Almost all ad-Successful Investing....

Investment Advisor & Analyst
Coca-Cola, Aqua-Chem
Merger Mutually Beneficial

Q — I have 150 shares of Aqua-Chem. Price action since the announcement of the merger with Coca-Cola has been poor. I can't understand why anyone wants to own Coca-Cola. Do the officers, who own 17 per cent of Aqua-Chem, get a better deal? What is your answer? — A.H.

A — I would not be quite so hasty to write off Coca-Cola. In spite of the government ban on cyclamates, earnings in 1969 increased 9.3 per cent to $2.11 a share. Earnings have moved up 225 per cent in the last decade as a result of yearly gains. The recent liberalizing of the dividend to $1.44 a share was the eighth increase in as many years. As for future growth, company officials see gains for the soft drink business in the next decade equal to those in the past.

The merger will give all holders, including company officers, one share of Coca-Cola for each 1.3115 shares of Aqua-Chem held. Your 150 shares will be exchanged for 114 KO shares, plus cash in lieu of .37 shares. On today's market this would mean an actual increment in cash value of $436. The benefits to be derived from the merger are not one-sided. Aqua-Chem, a comparatively small company, will gain the advantages of Coca-Cola's tremendous financial backing. To retain its lead in desalination — which is characterized in a Wall Street Transcript Roundtable Discussion, as a 30 per cent growth industry — will require substantial investments for research. Reverse osmosis, a process which is being developed by Aqua-Chem, has great promise but will not come cheap.

Coca-Cola, in addition to getting a foothold in a fast growth area, has a practical interest in Aqua-Chem's filtering systems. Having an in-house builder of water treatment plants would be an obvious plus for Coca-Cola's bottling operations as the world faces a worsening water quality situation. You should be happy to accept this share exchange.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened weak today in moderate turnover.

The market declined for the fourth day in a row Monday and many analysts saw little hope for an immediate recovery. But they noted that the slump has made a number of issues attractive to bargain hunters.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a loss of 0.07 per cent on 478 issues on the tape. Of these, 188 declined and 141 advanced.

Texasco lost 1/4 to 26 1/2 in the oil group, while Occidental dipped 1/4 to 21 1/2. Standard of California traded a block of 10,000 shares at 45, up 1/2.

Among the motors, Chrysler gained 1/4 to 26, but General Motors lost 1/4 to 70 1/2 and Ford 1/4 to 42 1/2.

In the steel group, U.S. Steel fell 1/4 to 36 1/2.

In the electronics, National Cash Register added 1 to 133, and General Electric 1/4 to 69 1/2. Fairchild Camera climbed 1/4 to 71 1/2, Telex Corp. 1/4 to 119 1/2, Westinghouse 1/4 to 65 1/2, Memorex 1/4 to 123 1/2. IBM lost 1/4 to 319 1/2.

Eastman Kodak eased 1/4 to 75 1/2 in the chemicals, Du Pont the same amount to 95 1/2.

Ulster Improvement Turns to Traffic Problems

SPLASHING THROUGH

Lenefsky at UCCC— Student, Politics Role

STONE RIDGE — "High school and college students are likely to have an increasing special role in shaping the American society and democratic process throughout the decade of the 1970's."

David Lenefsky, a West Shokan lawyer who has expressed interest in seeking the Democratic and Liberal Party nomination for state senator this year, spoke to students and faculty at Ulster County Community College Monday on the Student Role in American Politics for the 1970's.

He pointed out that there are more than 55,000,000 students in America today. More than 60 per cent of the American population between five and 34 years old is now enrolled in educational institutions.

"Students and faculty could provide a unique service to the country by assuming a new function in their local communities—one of providing the citizenry with background facts to public problems and an estimate of the consequences of each policy," he said.

"Today, government in America—federal, state, and local—often works in secrecy and generally fails to operate on the basis of full public disclosure." The Nixon Administration, for example, has failed to keep the public informed about the expanding U.S. military involvement in Laos. The N. Y. State Legislature recently reapportioned N. Y.'s Congressional districts without any prior public involvement. No other segment of the American society has available as many research materials and tools as do students and faculty to provide the public with basic background information.

"Students must begin to face outward to their community and apply their special learning to the solution of real problems." Students are just now becoming interested in pollution, "but students and faculty must do much more homework before they can fill the public information vacuum. When President Nixon recently announced a $10 billion, five-year program to clean America's waters, the students should have unmasked Nixon's half hearted effort by calling attention to the Department of the Interior's estimate that a five-year program to clean up the nation's rivers would cost $26 to $29 billion, and by citing the Clean Water Restoration Act, under which Congress has authorized more money for water pollution control in 1970 than Nixon initially requested. "Students and faculty must acquire a general expertise in environmental pollution before they can hope to have any influence on public attitudes and governmental policy. They must, for example, be able to identify the principal pollutants and their sources of origin, and be knowledgeable on the ecological disturbances and biological consequences resulting from pollution.

"Students and faculty must also do considerably more research on the contemporary problems confronting America. In domestic affairs, for example, our educational institutions should be researching and studying in depth new approaches, methods, and technologies for providing the public with better medical and dental facilities; new housing and urban reconstruction techniques; more equitable tax systems; and responsive public schooling." Lenefsky said that "America's peaceful technology has been retarded by the tremendous sums of money spent on military weapons research. The biggest technological breakthrough since World War II have occurred in nuclear weapons systems in space exploration—rather than for peaceful products to make quality of life for the American people. If substantial domestic progress is to be made in the decade of the 1970's, high schools and colleges will have to begin to grapple with the real complexity of the real world."

TOWN OF ULSTER

A broad Town of Ulster improvement project covering many facets for a more attractive business climate to encourage the influx of new business, industry, customers and residents went into second gear this week with concentration on traffic problems.

The program is a project of Ulster Businessmen's Association's Committee on Visual Environment Beautification (COVEB).

The program embraces correction of poor traffic conditions; unsightly business properties, junk car clearance, utility pole clutter, poor highway drainage, tree and shrub planting and voluntary business sign conformity.

The junk car problem is moving toward a successful conclusion with hundreds of abandoned vehicles already removed on car trailers by Consolidated Metals of Newburgh. The program for removal will continue for 60 days and the committee has asked the cooperation of all businessmen and residents to clear parking lots and private lands of junk cars.

Louis Di Donna, who with Bette Maxon are committee co-chairmen said the best advertisement for a businessman is to keep his location attractive to encourage customers. Civic pride in one's own community should motivate all businessmen to cooperate in this environment beautification.

Di Donna and Supervisor Carmine Sabino are working closely with State Transportation Department officials to solve some of the problems created by conditions of the state highway Route 9W which goes through the heart of the Town of Ulster business district from the city line to Caldor shopping center.

The committee would like the state to add another lane to the three-lane strip to facilitate the movement of traffic. This would require only a half lane added to each side of the highway. Also installation of storm drains are a must, they feel. This is quite evident after a heavy rain or snow runoff when huge expanses of water cover Route 9W at various low spots on the highway, the committee said.

Di Donna said flooding conditions and the subsequent mud creates a condition which discourages customers and gives an undesirable image of the town. Most customers and residents do not realize that the state is responsible for alleviating this condition, he said.

A four-lane non-divided highway would serve as an auxiliary to the proposed arterial through the township for through traffic.

Di Donna said a recent origin destination study of the state proves what the businessmen and Town of Ulster officials have contended for quite some time; that most of the vehicular traffic comes from the north on four-lane highway leading into moving traffic and creates hazard. The state has always used that excuse that they do not want a two-lane street as it enters the Route 9W and the east from a two-lane street as it enters the Route 199 (Kingston-Rhinecliff City of Kingston Bridge) and from the west on the Route 209 by-pass.

The problem of backing up of cars waiting to cross traffic to COVEB list.

TRAFFIC INSPECTION — Some of the key members of the Town of Ulster Businessmen's Association Committee on Visual Environment Beautification (COVEB) pause at the Route 9W by-pass near Shop-Rite Square during a recent tour of the Albany Avenue business section. Left to right are Louis Gruberg, Robert Battaglia, Supervisor Carmine Sabino and George Kirk, association president. Also on the inspection tour was Louis Di Donna, committee co-chairman. Can you hold your breath while you read this?

IF YOU'RE in good physical condition, you should be able to hold your breath for 60 seconds. The length of time it will take to read this ad.

And you're in good shape. Swam two lengths of the pool underwater just a few years ago. Walk whenever you can. Even plan to jog soon.

Because you know your body needs regular exercise every day. After all, without exercise, muscles get lazy, and even stop functioning. And your heart is just a muscle, you know.

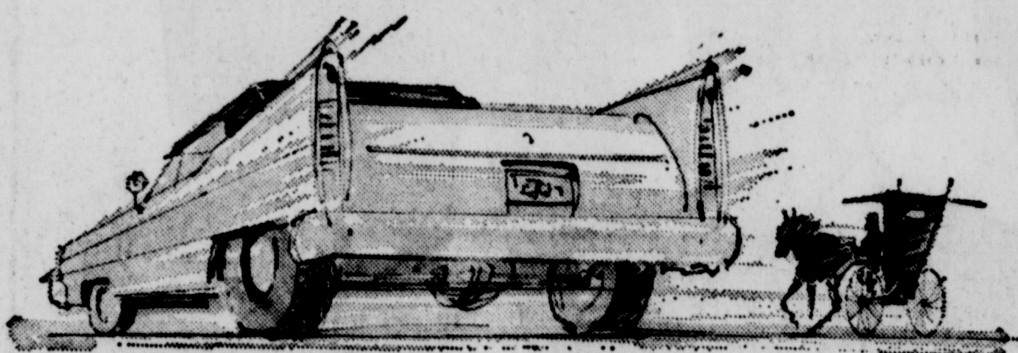

Of course, if you haven't exercised for years, you know enough not to try and catch up all at once with 92 pushups, don't you?

Running out of breath yet? You shouldn't be.

If you are, this is the time to have your doctor plan an exercise program for you. Because only he can tell you the kind of exercise you need and how much you can take.

See him. Before you run out of breath. Completely.

Sisterhood Agenda Is Announced

Mrs. Harry Z. Shectman presented a program on the Purim and Passover holidays at a general meeting of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel on March 11. Also at this meeting, Mrs. Francis Delaney, president of the Hillside Acres Garden Club, discussed and demonstrated the art of flower arranging. Sisterhood Ahavath Israel will hold its annual bazaar on April 4, 5, and 6. All new merchandise will be featured including men's, women's, and children's apparel, piece goods, and trimmings. A bake sale and various carnival games will be added attractions.

The Kingston Jewish Community Council will present a Purim Masquerade Ball on Saturday, at 9:30 p.m. in Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. There will be dancing to the music of Johnny Knapp and his orchestra, refreshments, and awards for outstanding costumes. In addition, a Queen Esther, Mordchai, and Haman will be chosen. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Fay Selinger and Mrs. Mary Scher. Preceding the Ball, the Megillah will be read to the children of Congregation Ahavath Israel and Temple Emmanuel at Ahavath Israel Synagogue on, 100 Lucas Avenue. Sisterhood members will serve refreshments.

Plans for the activities were discussed at a recent board meeting of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel. Those attending were the Mmes. Henry Jacobs, David Weinstein, Ephraim Tropp, George Jacobson, Seymour Semilof, Steven Scher, Bernard Cohen, Sidney Samuels, Joseph Horowitz, Pearl Adin, Harry Schwadron, Irving Scher, and William Ohsie.

Hall-Shader Nuptials Told

Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Hall of 81 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, announce the marriage of their daughter Sharon Loretta, to Vincent Peter Shader, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shader of Orlando, Fla., on Saturday, March 7 in Kingston. The wedding ceremony took place in the chambers of Judge Hubert Richter. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Harris of Route 32, Bloomington, N.Y.

A wedding dinner was given at Elmer's in Ruby, N.Y.

The bride attended Kingston High School. Her husband is a graduate of Fort Meyers High School in Fort Meyers, Fla. He is employed as a credit verifier for Family Publications Inc. in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Shader will reside on Hasbrouck Avenue in Kingston.

Beauty Tips

Up tight? Take a bath. Soaking in warm water and extra-thick soapsuds can do a lot to relax you.

It is traditional for a good shampoo session to include a stimulating scalp massage. In fact, the North India word meaning "to press" is champa, from which the Anglicized word shampoo is derived.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Carpinelli of Kingston have returned home after a stay in Florida. While there, they celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary.

Auxiliary Signs Pete Ferraro

The Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary has signed the Peter Ferraro Band for its upcoming benefit dinner and dance on Saturday, April 4 in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. Ferraro has been a popular band and orchestra leader for many years. He appeared with the LaFalce Brothers, Al Bernie, Sunny Gale and Jack Wakefield and has played for such top social functions as the Kingston Newspaper Guild Balls, New York State Pageants, Policeman's Ball and most recently for the very successful 1970 Fashion Preview sponsored by the Woman's Department of The Freeman.

Appearing with trumpeter Ferraro will be four high caliber professionals — Jim Sweeney, piano; John Mayone, drums; Bill Steuding, trombone; and John Buccigross, bass.

The Auxiliary dinner-dance will begin at 8 p.m. Dress is optional. Reservations should be made no later than March 25 with Mrs. William J. Cranston Jr., 309 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

AT TODAY'S LUNCHEON — Shown here arriving at St. Patrick's Day luncheon and fashion preview at John A. Coleman High School are (L-R) Mrs. Edward Gardner, Mrs. Warren Lawrence and Mrs. Paul Mills, co-chairmen. Fashions were shown today from Britts Department Store and commentator was Mrs. Donald MacIsaac. Proceeds from the event will benefit Coleman School. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

It is a long while since we have had small children in the house. Recently, however, a group of young ones with their parents moved almost next door. I have become aware once more of the role the mother plays in the family.

She drives the two older girls to school for a dance, seven to eight o'clock on Friday nights; she takes them to ski and to skate; they have the Girl Scouts on Tuesdays and music lesson on Wednesdays; they must attend the school basket ball games. Who sees that they get there? Mama.

The other day she came to me in search of a French cookbook. I offered Julia Child and she was delighted. The older girls with a group wanted to cook a French dinner. They settled on glorified beef stew (Boeuf Carbonnade), noodles, French bread, salad, and cream soups.

Their washing machine succumbed to the cold weather, so I offered mine, along with the dryer. A couple of times a week two big baskets of clothes are brought in; it is no trouble to put them in the washer or to transfer them to the dryer. Folding them is fun. I try to have the two baskets sorted and piled by the time they are called for. And what an array! Socks, shorts, sweaters (nylon, of course), blouses, ditto, sweet shirts, slacks, a dress once in a while.

When I observe all the love and care these children get I think of the twelve year old in Harlem who died of an overdose of heroin. He is said to be the youngest on record to die, as if this were some sort of distinction. He was one of a large family with no family life whatever. He slept in hallways, he lived on cupcakes and cokes. He did not go to school much and the school sent notes to his mother which were not answered.

He was shunted from one welfare agency to another; they were overcrowded or he was put on a waiting list or his problems were not what they were expecting. A young man who made friends with him for a while at one of the agencies before being transferred to another jail said he was a fine little fellow. He had never seen a child who responded so willingly to love and kindness. Everybody seemed surprised to find that he was taking drugs.

No one washed and folded his clothes or took him to a basketball game; no one cared what he ate or where he slept. Of course he had his distinction: he is the youngest ever to die of heroin. Maybe he should get a medal for it. Posthumus, of course.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

TOO MUCH TEASING

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are in complete disagreement concerning what I call his bad manners, and he calls personality. When we discuss anything, he will not allow me to complete a sentence. I end up losing my manners, and start shouting. He says that is his way of teasing, and that I am a crank for objecting. Who is right?—Alice J.

Dear Mrs. J.: Teasing is only pardonable up to the point at which it starts to upset. When he hurts, inspires anger, or severely ridicules, the teaser goes too far. Your husband is acting in an immature, selfish way. Nothing is more disastrous than living with someone who constantly tries to make a fool of you or understate you. If he will not listen to you, or read this letter, the best thing to do is to ignore him and try not to let him "get your goat."

Gift for Sponsor

Dear Mrs. Post: When a child is confirmed in our church (Roman Catholic) he must have his own sponsor. Since the sponsor gives up his time for such an occasion, I'm sure a gift from the child (or his parents) is in order. What type is appropriate?—Carol

Dear Carol: Actually, it is usually the sponsor who gives the child a gift for this important event, rather than vice versa. However, if you wish to show your appreciation, it would not be inappropriate to give the sponsor a small thank you gift such as a crucifix or a religious medal.

Dear Mrs. Post: I plan to buy a rather expensive stationery as a gift for a couple's first wedding anniversary. I have a choice of three letters to be engraved on the top of the stationery. Is it correct to have only the husband's initials? If not, how would I handle the situation?—Dolly

Dear Dolly: Since it is the wife who will be taking care of the couple's personal correspondence, the initials should be her's, rather than the husband's. Men generally have their full names engraved on their paper rather than initials. If you wish it to be a present to both, you must order two separate boxes of stationery, or you may have paper engraved with the address only, in a medium size that can be used by either a man or a woman.

Dear Mrs. Post: Several months ago I mailed two wedding presents and two baby presents. All four young people are the children of old friends. I have insurance receipts from all the packages so if the mail is at fault, I'd like to know. Is there a polite way out of this predicament?—Mrs. E. Wallace.

Dear Mrs. Wallace: You would not, of course, wish to embarrass your old friends by calling their attention to their daughters' thoughtlessness. However, you might do a considerable amount of good by embarrassing the young ladies. I would not hesitate to call them and ask if they received the gifts, explaining about the insurance receipts. If the gifts did not arrive, it will not embarrass the girls in any way. If they were delivered, I hope your call will shame them enough so that they will be more appreciative in the future.

Dear Mrs. Post: When going to the hospital to visit a friend who has just had a baby, is it necessary to take her a gift?—Louise

Dear Louise: It is not necessary, but it is thoughtful to bring something for the new mother—cologne (if she uses it) or handkerchiefs, or perhaps a plant or flower arrangement.

SPEAKER AT GRANGE MEETING — Mrs. Doris P. Schoonmaker (C) of Valley Gardens Inc., Accord, gave a demonstration and talk at the Patroon Grange in Accord on Monday, March 9. Mrs. Schoonmaker discussed the care, identification and treatment of diseases for house plants and garden flowers, shrubs and trees. This is the third in a series of talks which included the Sisterhood of Kerhonkson Synagogue, Ulster Garden Club of Kingston, and the Grange. Mrs. Schoonmaker reminded all persons present about the annual Palm Sunday display of Easter flowers March 22 which will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. in her greenhouses at Accord. Pictured here with the guest speaker are Marge Dix, lecturer; and Gilbert Quick, master. (Firestone photo).

Food Ideas

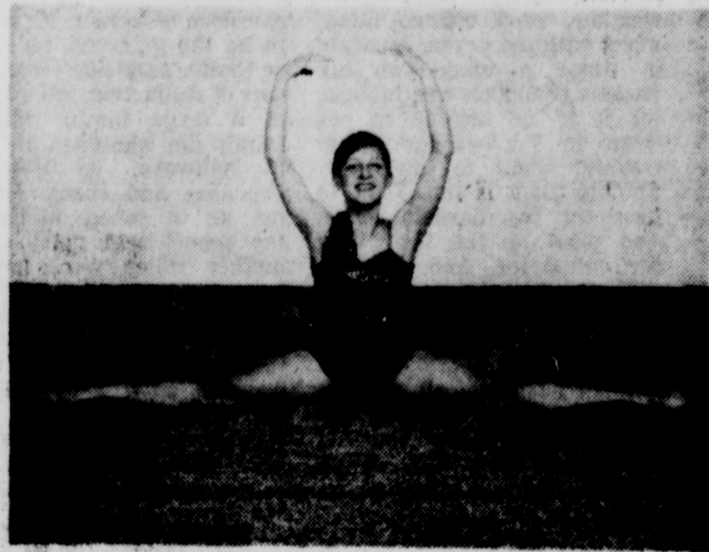

When you are suddenly entertaining, here's a speedy, delicious idea. Drain canned pineapple chunks. Then spear so chunks can be dunked in bowls of either dairy sour cream seasoned with dill weed, in grated sharp cheese or in chopped mint.

For especially delicious toast, toast bread lightly. Spread one side of each slice with a generous amount of butter. Place, buttered side up, under the broiler and toast again.

Toasted walnut halves make a delectable party snack. Spread the walnuts in a shallow baking pan and toast in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes. Sprinkle the walnuts with melted butter and toss well.

The next time Maine stir-fry sandwiches are on the menu, try adding a tablespoon or so of picadillo to the mixture. Great for hungry winter-whetted appetites!

When broiling meats or bacon on a rack, place one or two pieces of dry bread in the broiler pan to soak up the dripped fat.

NOEL CARPINO, acrobatic student of Betty Bunce Dance School, won second place cash award at the Band Boosters Talent Show held Saturday evening, March 7 at Rondout Valley Central School. Noel has won many other awards, including highest number of points at Dutchess County Fair Talent Competition in 1969. She took fifth place at the New York State Fair Competition in Syracuse in September 1969. Noel is the daughter of Mrs. Jennie Carpio of Kingston and John Carpio, of Kingston.

Nail Care

In breaking nails, due to office work on household chores, make you hide you hands, try this: Keep hands moisturized with dry skin or extra-dry skin cream; keep nails filed; keep nail polish on them at all times — especially enamels with a protein base that prevent chipping, splitting and breaking. Your nails will look great and will stay that way.

Organizational Activities Are Noted

Sawyer Homemaker

On Thursday, March 19 at 8 p. m., the Sawyer Homemakers will present a program on Menopause. A Kingston physician will be guest speaker and he will conduct a question and answer period. The meeting will take place in the Dutch Arms Chapel, John Street, Saugerties.

A film "A Changing View of the Change of Life" will be shown. This is a candid and informative film of vital interest to women of all ages. The film presents new attitudes, hope and proof that the "inevitable" is not inevitable at all.

Ulster Democrats

The regular meeting of the Town of Ulster Democratic Social Club will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at Lake Katrine Grange Hall, Lake Katrine.

All members are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Penny Social

The Women's Guild of St. John's, St. Joan's and St. Augustine's, West Hurley, is sponsoring a penny social on Sunday, April 12 at 1:30 p. m. in the West Hurley Fire Hall. Proceeds from the event will be used to acquire audio-visual aid equipment for the Parish Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Program. The penny social will feature a large assortment of gifts, including household articles, toys handicraft items. Also included in the afternoon's events will be a bake sale, awarding of and original painting and an art display on the Penny Social theme, "It's Springtime, Charlie Brown!"

Installation Dinner

A meeting was held on Monday night, Mar. 9, at the home of Mrs. Anthony Cruise, president of the Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association, to initiate plans for the annual installation dinner to be held on Wednesday, May 20 at 7 p. m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The following members were appointed as committee chairmen: Program, Mrs. Michael Maxson; dinner reservations, Mrs. M. PLAYER OF THE YEAR — Pete Maravich, the flashy scorer-playmaker, whose court abilities completely reversed the fortunes of Louisiana State basketball, holds the Naismith Award after he was named college basketball's "Player of the Year" by United Press International Monday, in New York. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Pistol Pete Top Player

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pete Maravich, a guy who plays basketball as if he invented the game, is the proud possessor of a giant trophy, named after the originator of the sport, designating the Louisiana State University star the college player of the year.

Maravich, the scorer-playmaker whose list of accomplishments include 11 NCAA scoring records and 34 Southeastern Conference offensive marks, was named winner of the second annual James A. Naismith Award Monday.

The slender, 6-foot, 5-inch Maravich, college basketball's greatest scorer in history, was an easy winner in the balloting for the Naismith Award conducted by United Press International.

The young man with the tousled hair and floppy socks was named the top player in the country by 467 of the 566 sports writers and sportscasters participating in the balloting.

Announcement of the award, presented by the Atlanta, Ga., Tipoff Club, was made jointly in New York and Atlanta. Lew Alcindor of UCLA was the winner of the first Naismith Award a year ago.

Bob Lanier, the giant center for St. Bonaventure who was considered the best man in the college ranks this season, was second in the voting with 37 votes while Rick Mount of Purdue was third with 13, followed by Dan Issel of Kentucky with 12 and Austin Carr of Notre Dame with 11.

The award winner and his father-coach, Press Maravich, were both present for the announcement in New York.

"Whoever thought that skinny kid who grew up shooting baskets would one day achieve something like this," the father said of his son's award.

Hodges Still Has That Midas Touch

Gil Hodges still has that Midas touch.

Not satisfied with an outfield alignment of Cleon Jones, Tommie Agee and Ron Swoboda, a trio that helped the New York Mets win the World Series, Manager Gil went for further strength during the off season.

He came up with Dave Marshall and Ray Sadecki from the San Francisco Giants. Skeptics branded the deal n.g. and for a while it appeared they had hung the "no good" label on the right party.

Marshall went hitless in his first seven exhibition appearances. Then a tidal wave: At first it was a small ripple as Marshall collected two singles against Cincinnati. But there was a resounding tremor Monday as Marshall was called to pinchhit with two on, two out and New York trailing Detroit, 2-0, in the ninth. He walloped the ball over the fence for a three-run homer and a 3-2 New York victory.

That was the kid of Hodges' timeliness that propelled the Mets to greatness last season. Sadecki, the beneficiary of Marshall's game-ending blow, pitched four innings and gave up five hits for the victory.

STONE RIDGE

Pitching is the name of the game and pitching is something Coach Al DiBernardo doesn't have much of, as he ponders Ulster County Community College's baseball opener on April 4 at Kingsborough Community in Brooklyn and a 16-game slate for the season.

For the first time in his seven years as UCCC baseball mentor, Coach DiBernardo doesn't have a single pitching veteran among the 23 hopefuls who have been working out at the Marletown school. The situation is the same in the outfield.

Graduation took Charlie (Hot Dog) Moore, who transferred his considerable talents to Southampton College on Long Island. Mickey Bush, a top prospect, was severely injured in an auto accident, and John Arbogast, one of the three starters last season, didn't come out until his sophomore year.

We'll Miss Moore

"We're certainly going to miss a guy like Charlie," said DiBernardo. "Right now we have six candidates — five righthanders and a lefty — working out indoors in the small Marletown gym. We had been hoping to get outdoors but the last snowfall delayed our plans."

The list of candidates includes Jerry Rosensweig of Queens; Dale Sutton, ex-Marlboro High; Frank Horn, the ex-UCCC basketball player who has returned to school; John Connors, of John Glenn High School, Long Island; and Bob Clando, a southpaw out of Pleasantville.

"It's a little too early to tell, but it looks like we should come up with at least three respectable starters from this group," said the Senator coach.

AL DI BERNARDO

The picture is much brighter in the catching department where Larry Trippodo, the basketball player, returns with a .300 average. Trippodo will be challenged by Lou Scarsella, a Brooklyn freshman who comes to UCCC highly rated.

"He has a strong throwing arm and gets the ball away fast," says DiBernardo of Scarsella. "If he wins the No. 1 spot, I'll shift Larry to the outfield."

Mike Waszewski of New Paltz High is available for reserve.

Schatzel at First

Gary Schatzel, holdover first baseman, anchors the infield, with a near .300 batting average, superb fielding. DiBernardo calls the former KHS player,

"the best glove man in the Mid-Hudson Conference League."

Mike Patrick, the team's power hitter with a .330 average and three home runs in 1969, will play second and be the field captain.

Mike Derrenbacher, a nifty all round operator, left a gaping hole at shortstop when he graduated, but Coach DiBernardo thinks Tim Rossner of Wallkill High can take over adequately.

"He's big, has a good arm, moves well and has a wide range," says the coach.

Heavy Maroon Flavor
Greg Rios, ex-Kingston High, is expected to take over third base without much opposition. Four Kingston High graduates, basketballers Ed Torroni and Bob Knight of Ontario comprise the list of outfield hopefuls. Among the old Maroons are John Carter, Jerry Corrado, Harry Lyons and Tony Darwak.

Conflict With Opener

The Senators' home opener is tentatively scheduled April 10 against Nassau Community at Dietz Stadium. Except there's a slight hitch. Kingston High is also scheduled there that day.

"We're trying to work that out," says DiBernardo. He also indicated there were other conflicts in the use of Dietz Stadium and did not rule out the possibility of shifting some of the UCCC games to other facilities if the conflicts could not be resolved.

UCCC will compete in the five-team Mid-Hudson Conference with Dutchess, Sullivan, Rockland, Orange County, Westchester Community does not sponsor baseball. Dutchess is the defending champion.

Army Prayers Too Much for Jaspers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Invitation Tournament's quarter-final round Monday night showed the power of prayer. Tonight's round may finally show the power of Pete.

"I called three time outs and each time I told the boys to pray, pray hard," said Bobby Knight, the Army coach as his Cadets held off Manhattan's second half rally to score a 77-72 victory over the Jaspers.

"I told everybody to say a Hail Mary," said Lou Carnesecca of St. John's as his team kept Georgia Tech from scoring in the last seven seconds of play to take a 56-55 triumph over the Yellow Jackets.

In tonight's quarter-final round, Pete Maravich, the leading scorer in college basketball history, attempts to bounce back from what he called, "the worst game of my career," as Louisiana State meets Oklahoma in the second game of a doubleheader.

Marquette, generally considered the strongest team in the tournament, takes on Utah in the first game.

Army built up a 20-point halftime lead before seeing its defense, tops in the nation, almost crumble before Manhattan's relentless pressure. Only outstanding foul shooting by Doug Clevenger in the second half held off the Jaspers, who cut the Cadets' lead to one point midway through the second half.

"You have to give Manhattan a lot of credit," said Knight. "They really bounced back. But our boys did a great job. They didn't give up. They didn't lose their poise and hung in there when it counted."

"Their 3-2 zone press bothered us somewhat," said Knight. "But we didn't lose our poise. We just got a little careless. I was a little worried. All I could think about was that North Carolina had them, 16-3 in the first half and Manhattan outscored them by 25 points in the second...and North Carolina's a heckuva club."

Clevenger led Army with 22 points and all 12 in the second half came at the free throw line. Army could manage only eight baskets in the second half, three by Jim Oxley, and only two in the last four minutes.

St. John's ripped off the first eight points of the game and seemingly had Georgia Tech on the ropes until Bill Mayer and Rich Yunkus rallied the Engineers. St. John's spurred to a 20-23 halftime lead but saw that wiped out as Georgia Tech became "Yunkus Tech."

Yunkus, a 6-foot-9 junior who averaged over 30 points a game, had only four at the half. He became the whole attack in the second half, however, as he scored Tech's first 17 points after intermission to put the Jackets ahead 40-37 with 10:16 remaining.

Joe DePre sparked an 8-0 run to put St. John's ahead 45-40 as who starred after coming off Tech went scoreless, for six minutes. John Veryzer became the first Tech player other than left. Yunkus to score when he hit with seven seconds remaining with 4:09 left.

Yunkus put Tech into the lead. Yunkus was broken up.

Is This the Last Day for Seattle?

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Seattle Pilots may become the Milwaukee Brewers before this day is over. The American League is just about ready to approve the transfer at a special meeting in the International Inn.

After weeks of indecision in which they tried to sell the club to Seattle interests, turned down a bid from a nonprofit group and then voted to back the original owners with a $650,000 loan, the American League is ready to make a move.

Nine of the 12 clubs must approve the transfer and the votes are understood to be in hand. The probability is that the one club within 90 miles which might have veto power on territorial rights, the Chicago White Sox, will go along.

A transfer is certain to generate new threats in Congress to baseball's immunity from antitrust laws. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., has said he would urge Congress to revoke the game's immunity from the trust laws because "when you move these franchises around like pawns just because you think you'll do better in some other town, then you're in business."

In King County, Wash., Superior Court, two restraining orders have been granted against the move. The American League and the Pilots have been ordered to show cause later this week why a temporary injunction should not replace the restraining orders.

The latest suit was filed Monday by the State of Washington and the City of Seattle asking more than $80 million in damages if the franchise is moved.

Joe Cronin, league president, has said repeatedly that every effort was being made to keep the club in Seattle. He has been "tuddling with lawyers for months and is fully aware of all the legal complications involved."

It appeared the American League exhausted its last hope of settling the Seattle situation without shoveling more money down the drain when Seattle bidders of February said Friday they were no longer interested.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, stepping into the case, approached Edward Carlson, Seattle hotel executive who headed a nonprofit group, about the prospect of resubmitting its bid. The bid had been turned down Feb. 11 when the league voted $650,000 to the old owners to tide them through spring training.

In rejecting the show of renewed interest in the proposal, Carlson the group's spokesman, said the economic analysis on which their bid was based no longer was valid. Furthermore, Carlson said it was the group's firm belief that the league must carry through its commitment to remain in Seattle.

In Milwaukee, the American League will have a 45,000-seat stadium ready for an April 7 opening game with the California Angels. The Seattle park seated only 28,000 and attendance was only 677,944 in the city's first year of major league ball with a last-place team. Plans have been made and a bond issue approved to build a domed stadium that would be completed in 1973.

By a strange twist of fate,

Milwaukee will be gaining a club in the face of legal action, similar to the action Milwaukee itself took when the Braves moved on to Atlanta after the 1965 season.

Milwaukee was the first site of a big league franchise move in recent years when the Boston Braves moved west in 1953. The date was March 18 and the switch was accomplished without difficulty while the club was playing an exhibition game in St. Petersburg.

The Pilots, of course, already are playing exhibitions. Ticket sales have lagged in the light of the uncertainty over the club's future and a radio contract has been renegotiated with considerable loss of revenue.

Promoter Says He Has Dough

SEATTLE (AP) — A free-lance Seattle promoter, Fred Ruge, told the American League Monday night he has the money to buy the Seattle Pilots and demanded a chance to prove it.

Ruge said the baseball league has ignored his repeated attempts to purchase the team although he has oral pledges for financing from 22 firms he said are recognized nationally but won't allow identification until the league agrees to hear him.

He also said he has a deed to property worth $500,000 and that the document is in a confidential account in Seattle "awaiting escrow instructions" from him.

Are you going to go through another year thinking you can't afford an Oldsmobile?

Our own surveys indicate that quite a few people think an Oldsmobile is out of their reach. They think it costs a lot more than it really does. Result? Many people buy an ordinary car and end up with a lot less car and value for their money. It's so unnecessary, too, because Oldsmobile has many models that are priced right down with the so-called low-priced cars. So why settle for the ordinary when you can step up to an Olds and all the value that an Olds represents. Take this big, exciting Delta 88, for example. It starts out with a surprisingly modest price. Add to this the features that make it such an outstanding value — extras that are included in the modest price: □ Regular-gas Rocket V-8 □ Power Steering □ Power Brakes, front discs □ Nylon-loop carpeting □ Bias-Belted Tires □ Door Side-Guard Beams □ Hidden Radio Antenna □ Flo-Thru Ventilation □ Bigger, better riding 124" wheelbase. CHARLES J. TIANO

"It just goes to show how much ground we have to make up before we can catch those guys." This was Ron Gabrielle talking. The spirited Kingston High school swimming coach had just returned from Syracuse where Section 9 swimmers had achieved progress of sorts in the New York State Intersectionals.

"The biggest surprise at the state swim meet was that fact that for the first time Section 9 didn't finish last," said Gabrielle. He really didn't mean it that way but that's the way it came out.

Section Nine placed seventh in a field of nine sections, but more than 190 points on the pace set by Section 6 swimmers in the Buffalo area.

"Swimming is a big deal in that part of the state," said the KHS coach. "At some schools, the swim matches outdraw basketball."

That isn't really surprising. We got the impression this season that in some areas of Section 9 the wrestling teams were also outdrawing basketball. It's a trend of the times.

THERE WERE OTHER little surprises. For example, Jack Ryan Jr. of Highland Falls High, considered the finest swimmer in this part of the country, could do no better than 8th and 10th places. Kingston's all-time great, Craig Murray, was also thwarted in his bid to end his high school career in a high note. That gives you an idea of the kind of opposition you encounter in a state meet.

From another angle, the New York State Public High School officials now realize they have some hot property on their hands with the swim meets. They've decided to abandon the so-called "extreme" plan in favor of a new "rectangle" plan. The purpose is more statewide exposure.

Under the extreme setup, meets were scheduled at the two ends of the state—The Buffalo area and Long Island. The rectangle plan of the future eliminates both areas and will concentrate on four cities—Rochester, Syracuse, Binghamton and Albany. The 1971 event has been assigned to Rochester.

JACK RYAN SR., the varsity swim coach at West Point, has another idea, but so long as Section 9 retains its outmoded hierarchy there isn't a ghost of a chance.

Before they were assigned to Rochester, Ryan was begging the state officials to hold the championships in the spanking new pool at the U. S. Military Academy. What a treat for the youngsters!

"No dice," insists the state officials. The reason? West Point falls under the jurisdiction of Section 9. Therefore, Section 9 would have set up and run the state meet. But state officials seem to be disenchanted with the Section 9 chairman—John Halchak of Fallsburg. They claim the Section 9 operation is shoddy and have no intention of having the "big show" in this area under present conditions.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE that Lew Alcinder refused $20,000 for one week's play in the Albany area after graduation from UCLA?

Would you believe that Calvin Murphy, the Niagara All-America, has just nixed a $10,000 offer for the same circuit?

They did, according to Al DeSantis, former Schenectady sports editor, who resigned when the Albany and Dorpan papers merged and joined the state horsebreeders association. At a substantial increase in salary, we might add.

"I offered Alcinder twenty grand for five games in five different cities in one week and he laughed at me," DeSantis recalled here Saturday night. He was in town to see the Harlem Wizards.

"Murphy was equally tough," says Al. "Neither would be bothered."

Meanwhile, we hear tell that George Stuetzle, the Pine Plains Bombardier owner who has ability for big college names, is trying to lure Murphy to Poughkeepsie for "at least" the finals of Poughkeepsie YMCA-Mid Hudson tournament. At how much, George? One grand?

HOWIE DAVIS, the Harlem Wizards pilot, would like to return to Kingston for a legitimate showdown contest. The question—against whom? Well, how about an all-star college team with such as Jerry Moss, Tony Pough and Gary Kirkwood, the UCC seniors; ex-Senators Mike Dee, Rod Chando; Steve Washington of Westchester and Ed Jones of Sullivan County. And a few others.

HANGING OUT THE WASH: James (Babe) Volker of Kingston visiting with Casey Stengel and the New York Mets in St. Petersburg, Fla., where the weather has been the kind that keeps the California chambers of commerce in stitches.

Rumor Department: A year-round camp for boys is on the drawing boards for Kingston area (very close). The camp would operate on annual and seasonal basis. Big names would use it for football training, plus summer clinics for basketball, soccer, baseball, swimming, golf . . . all by nationally famous instructors.

Larry Harris, who started his basketball career at Kingston High, scored 428 points for 23.7 average in 18 games with Mont Pleasant of Schenectady. Ranked sixth in tri-city area.

Greg Cappillino of Highland is one of the pitchers working out with the Ithaca College varsity squad. He was 3-0 in the 1969 season.

An unidentified reader sent along a book review on Sugar Ray, the life of Sugar Ray Robinson, one of boxing's immortals. He fought his first amateur match in Kingston in 1936. How true, and under the name of Young Ray. One of the men in his corner that night was the late George Gainford, who stayed with Sugar Ray throughout his career.

A-B-C-D and XYZ, You Play Me; Are These Playoffs Necessary?

KINGSTON

Newburgh Free Academy's outstanding basketball squad, undefeated winners of the DUSO League, owners of a 19-1 overall record, Section Nine Class A champions and one of the finest teams anywhere in the state, put their magnificent record on the line Saturday night, March 14, against Class B title-winners, Nyack, a team that finished in fourth place in the Rockland County League.

The game, won by Newburgh 53-31, generated about as much excitement and interest among area sports buffs as did the sixth grade marble-shooting championships at J. Watson Bailey School, the hop-scotch title matches staged during recess at the Poughkeepsie Day School and the third grade cheerleading contests at Oshkosh Central.

The thinking, by the powers that be, in Section Nine, is that they must do something beyond in individual class titles. So, each year, they come up with this lemon. They say it is a money-maker, one that they need, so they stage it.

Gym Packed New Palitz College's Elting gym, scene of the Class A battle between seventh ranked Clarkstown and Newburgh Friday night, was filled to overflowing. More than 2500 people viewed the game. Another 1200 or so were turned away, including Newburgh Athletic Director Stan Hemingway (that, by the way, is another story), who listened to the game in the gym parking lot on his car radio.

If even half that many showed up for Saturday's classic, they were lucky, the money-makers that is.

You want a money-maker? How about this one? Newburgh in a rematch against Linton High School of Section Two in Schenectady.

Linton, ranked number one by the Associated Press, all season long. Winners earlier in the season over Newburgh by six scant points at Schenectady. Linton, undefeated in 21 games this season, sparked by the play of 6-8 Sid Edwards, one of the few legitimate high school All-Americans.

Scene of the game? How about the field house at West Point?

Put that one in your bill fold, boys and see how it feels! Actually, what all this is trying to prove is that the sectionals as they now stand, are archaic, decadent and behind-the-times. A poll, of area sportswriters, coaches, other school officials and basketball fans, conducted by "yours truly" bears this out.

Tiano for Change Charles Tiano, Freeman Sports Editor feels that the kind of playoffs now being conducted are outmoded.

"The sectionals need a new look," said Tiano. "This is evidenced by the lack of interest in the event, particularly the A-B, C-D affairs. An open championship, round robin or intersectional play is the only solution. They have them in swimming, golf, tennis, skiing and wrestling. Why can't it be done in basketball, the biggest sport of them all?"

Newburgh News sports editor Bo Gill feels much the same way as does Tiano.

"It doesn't prove anything," said Gill. "especially in the A-B game. They try to make money with it and there really is no value. This year, a fourth place team had an opportunity to knock off one of the best in the state. If they did it fine for them, but as far as pre-game interest, nothing!"

Newburgh Coach Mickey Burkoski was very outspoken in his feelings towards that A-B game.

"This game is very anticlimactic. I don't mean this as a slap against any Class B team, certainly not Nyack, they are a good club. But, it doesn't mean a thing to the kids, coaches, or fans. They just want to make money and both me and my boys and the Nyack contingent felt the same way." "The whole thing is very, very boring," he concluded.

Kingston cage coach Mike Rienzo stated: "I don't see any point in it. The kids, the coaches themselves don't want to play it."

John "Chick" Meehan, Athletic Director and basketball coach at Rondout Valley, feels a little different, but not much.

"It might end up six of one and a half-dozen of the other, no matter what they try, it is anti-climatic, even more so, the way it is now. Something should be done. It needs a change," said Meehan.

Kingston AD Bill Hurley said: "An intersectional tournament, or even single game would be a natural. However, you have to start thinking about it and planning it before the season begins. You can't wait until the end to try and dicker for it."

What Can Be Done? Well, according to John McMahon, athletic director at Tappan Zee High School and Section Nine basketball director, a lot can be done, if it is started in time.

"I understand that we will be trying for a regional set-up, at least in Class A, for next year. If Section Nine wants to continue as they are, they can, if they want to change, they can do that to. It's up to them. The New York State Athletic Association has no ruling against regionals that I know of. We have to start dicker now, however."

"I have no personal feelings one way or another," concluded

McMahon. "It's just another night of basketball." So, it all comes down to the individual officers in this section. They can change if they want to. They should. We'd even show up for a Newburgh-Linton game!

Kiwanis Ties For Biddy 2nd

KINGSTON

Kiwanis hoopers, paced by a 13-point performance from Bill Chaffin, defeated Spartan Pools, 34-27, in the Recreation Biddy Basketball League. The win by Kiwanis put them into a tie with the K P A. club for second place.

The tie will be played off tonight to decide the second spot in the Shaughnessy playoffs for the championships. The teams have a 7-2 record.

Chaffin received scoring support from Mickey Watzka, who hit for nine points. Dave Schleede and Jerry Perry had eight markers apiece for the losers.

The scoring—Kiwanis (34)—Jordan 6, Kivlan 6, Watzka 9, Kivlan J. 6, Chaffin 13, Gray 0, Studt 6, Sinsabaugh 6, Bitonte 0, Spartan Pools (27)—Schleede 8, Perry 8, Murray 5, Petramale, B.S. Petramale, A. 1.

The Tenpin Roundup

Shelighner's 749 Season's Highest

KINGSTON — Big Bob Shelighner has regained the Kingston area tenpin scoring lead with a 749 blast in the Invitational Classic. Shelighner eclipsed Larry Petersen's 742 with lines of 237, 237 and 276 in the Invitational Classic. It was Big Bob's fifth 70 series of the season. He also holds down third place with 741. His other sets were 718, 714 and 706.

The Fort Ewen blaster anchored Garraghan Oil to a 3023 team series with high sets of 1021 and 3023. Ed Weeks rolled 204-602 for the team. Jack Blinder of Tri-County Ice Cream achieved one of his top efforts of the season with 685 off 213, 247 and 225, for runnerup honors. Sonny Barnes decked 664 off a crazy-quilt 252, 145, 247.

Other qualifiers: Jim Petersen 213-605, Larry Petersen 241-638, Al North 227-617, Vince Carpino 211-605, Jim Amendola 241-638, Harold Broskie 213-618, Hans Wolf 228-601, Ben Sanford 235-214-657; Bud

NFL Discards 2-Point Tries On Conversions

HONOLULU (AP) — Uniform rules adopted by the newly merged National Football League kicked the two-point conversion attempt out of the game.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Monday night the executives of the 26 NFL clubs approved adoption of the old NFL practice of allowing only a one-point kick after touchdown. The old AFL had the option of one point by kick or two points by pass or run.

"The conversion rule," Rozelle told newsmen, "drew the most pros and cons. Oddly enough, most of the coaches at the meeting favored the two-point conversion."

A four-man competition committee studied the rules changes forced by the merger of the NFL and AFL for four days prior to Monday's opening of the weeklong NFL meeting here, the first since the two leagues joined forces.

All four of the committee's recommended rule changes were adopted, Rozelle said.

Other league differences resolved Monday included the shape of the ball. The one approved was the NFL's, less pointed than the one used by the AFL.

But the competition committee favored the AFL on two counts—names on the back of players' jerseys and official time kept on the scoreboard. Previously, the NFL had an official timekeeper on the field. Rozelle said the discussion on the conversion rule lasted nearly an hour and a number of votes were changed.

"There was a feeling that the two-point conversion gave the coaches more of a gamble," Rozelle said, "that it added a certain element to the game."

Scott Third ABA Plum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The young American Basketball Association has made it three in a row, with promises of possible six straight, in its fight with the established National Basketball Association over the recruiting of college seniors.

"We have won the ballgame," said Earl H. Foreman, president of the ABA's Washington Caps. "We're signing the draft choices and they're not."

Foreman made his comments during a news conference Monday in which he announced the signing of Charlie Scott, the two-time second team All American from North Carolina, to a three-year contract.

"He'll be the highest paid professional athlete in Washington," said Foreman, adding Scott will earn more than home-run hitting Frank Howard who reportedly signed with the Washington Senators for $125,000 a year.

Scott thus follows Purdue's Rick Mount and Davidson's

Mike Maloy who signed multi-year contracts with the ABA's Indiana and Pittsburgh clubs. Mount's contract, which reportedly could earn him more than $1 million, allegedly calls for $40,000 for five years, a $20,000 bonus and an investment program starting in 20 years and running for 20 years which could yield up to $50,000 per year.

It was understood that Maloy's contract in Pittsburgh calls for $150,000 for three years. James Gardner, president of the ABA and head of the Carolina Cougars, said his league will sign five of the top six seniors and could possibly get all six.

"You'll see several more announcements made in the next few days," Gardner predicted. The other college seniors considered to make up the top six are Pete Maravich of Louisiana State University, Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure and Bob Isel of Kentucky.

"We have a very good chance of getting Pete," said Gardner whose Cougars drafted Maravich in Buffalo Monday with Lavinich. He said Carolina had nuer who injured his knee last talked to Maravich in New York Saturday in Columbia, S.C. and where LSU is playing in the Na-will be out of the NCAA finals. tional Invitational Tournament. Lanier Tops in Region

NEW YORK (UPI)—All-American Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure, who had his college career ended Saturday when he injured a knee in the Bonnies' victory over Villanova in the NCAA eastern regional finals, has been chosen player of the year in Division I of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Lanier, the greatest scorer in St. Bonaventure history, was eighth in the nation in scoring this season with a 30.1 average. The Buffalo, N.Y. native was also named to the ECAC All-East team in each of his three varsity seasons.

Denis Clark of Springfield, a 6-foot-1 guard who was the NCAA college division's second-best free throw shooter, was selected as player of the year for the ECAC's Division II while George Rahn of Muhlenberg received a similar designation for Division III.

Jaycees Ready

For New Season

Kingston Jaycees Little League has started reorganizing for the 1970 season. First registration last Saturday drew a fine turnout. Other dates will be announced.

Ron Keizer is president of the JCC league, with Jack Bentley, secretary; John Porch, treasurer; and John Kuehn, Player Agent.

NEW CHARGES FOR TOLL CALLS FROM COIN PHONES

Increased rates for toll calls from coin phones, which went into effect on February 26, have been scaled down. These reductions, effective March 15, have been requested by the Public Service Commission.

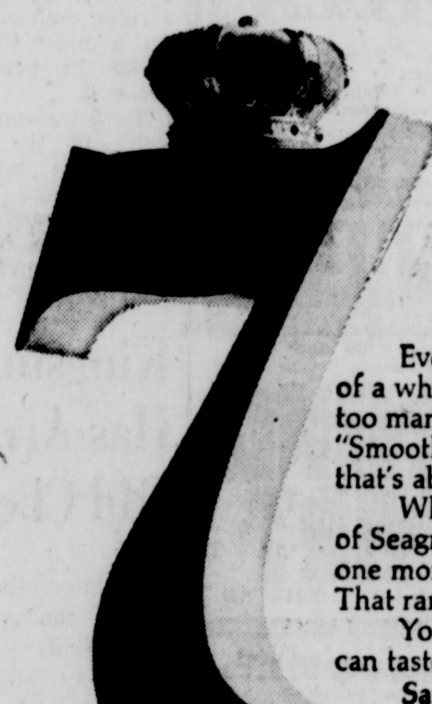

Decreases apply to the first three minutes of station-to-station calls you make within New York State that are paid for at the time you make them. The former charge still applies to collect, credit card and billed-to-third-number calls from a coin phone.

There are new DAY rates in effect which reduce rates by 5¢ to 20¢. New NIGHT and SUNDAY rates will scale down charges by 5¢ to $1.05 for calls made after 8:00 p.m. And, all 10¢ toll calls which rose to 30¢ (including tax) on February 26, revert to 10¢.

SOME TYPICAL EXAMPLES:	FORMER RATE (All hours all days)	NEW DAY RATE (4:30 AM-8 PM Mon.-Sat.)	NEW NIGHT RATE (8 PM-4:30 AM Mon.-Sat. & All Day Sun.)
Buffalo-New York City	$1.60	$1.40	$.75
Syracuse-New York City	1.30	1.20	.70
Glens Falls-Hudson	.85	.75	.60
Albany-Poughkeepsie	.75	.70	.60
Utica-Cooperstown	.55	.45	.45
Troy-Amsterdam	.50	.40	.40
Newburgh-Seacon	.25 (3 Min.)	.10 (4 Min.)	.10 (4 Min.)

NOTE: Tax is not included in these rates. For instance, on a NIGHT RATE call from Buffalo to New York a customer will actually deposit $.85 to cover federal excise tax.

Ever try to describe the taste of a whiskey to a friend? There aren't too many words you can use. — "Smooth" . . . "mellow" . . . that's about it.

When you're describing the taste of Seagram's 7 Crown we think there's one more word you'll want to add. That rare intangible . . . "quality".

You can't touch it. But you sure can taste it!

Say Seagram's and Be Sure.

Egypt Accuses Israel Of Recruiting Tactics

By United Press International
Egypt accused Israel today of trying to recruit American Jewish pilots to fly its F4 Phantoms, the U.S.-built fighter-bombers used in Israeli raids around Cairo. Fighting flared on the Israeli-Lebanese frontier.

The border battling began, Tel Aviv said, with a shelling attack on one of its outposts that caused no casualties. Lebanon said Israeli guns fired back into three Lebanese frontier villages, killing two civilians and wounding five.

Cairo's semi-official newspaper, Al-Ahram, carried the report on the Israeli recruiting campaign in a dispatch from New York attributed to official military sources.

The dispatch said many of the American pilots being sought flew for the Israeli air force in the 1967 Middle East War and now are being offered $1,000-a-week raises to return to Israel to fly the Phantoms.

Tennis Classes

Tennis classes under the adult education program of the Red Hook Central School began Monday, March 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym. The instructor will be Peter Zeel. Also starting next Monday, 7:30 p.m., will be the course in golf under the direction of Law Weather.

Bard Speaker

Talcott Parsons, an eminent American sociologist, will speak at Bard on March 18 at 9 p.m. in the college's gymnasium. His topic will be "Strains and Opportunities in the Student's Status." Dr. Parsons is Professor of Social Relations at Harvard, and a former Chairman of the Department. He has published many works, including: "The Structure of Social Action," "General System and Toward a Social Theory of Action" (in collaboration with Shils and others). Dr. Parsons' lecture is open to the public.

New Oil Slick Seen Threat To Migratory Bird Refuge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A thin oil film glazed Louisiana oyster-producing waters today and two larger slicks, each 10 miles long, closed around an island haven for migratory birds.

The eight-day-old oil spills were being fed by two renegade wells on Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" platform, 12 miles off the Louisiana Coast in the Gulf of Mexico.

The main slick split into two fragmented arms Monday and oiled along both sides of Breton Island, a bird refuge 10 miles northeast of "Charlie."

McFadden Duffy, spokesman for the state Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, said the commission would monitor the 12 miles to determine if the oyster beds were being polluted.

A heavy oil slick could kill oysters, Duffy said, while a very light one might leave them unharmed. He said oysters could purge themselves of light pollution, given 21 days in clean water.

Louisiana shrimp fishermen filed suit in federal court against Chevron Monday, claiming $70 million in potential pollution damage. Oyster fishermen filed a similar action Friday for $31.5 million.

Kingston Trust Has Array of Old Checks

An interesting array of historical checks is on display until Friday at the Central Broadway office of Kingston Trust Company.

Included in the exhibit are checks issued by many famous persons including Aaron Burr, Abraham Lincoln, Daniel Webster, Samuel Clemens, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. Also included are samples of "scrip" which was issued in lieu of money during the 1933 bank "holiday."

The Burroughs Corporation has assembled these educational and historical documents signed by people who wrote history in an exhibit which is on a nationwide tour.

George Rusk, president of Kingston Trust, states that the entire family will find this display most interesting and extends a cordial invitation to all to visit the bank.

Kingston Vols Meet Thursday

KINGSTON
The meeting of the Kingston Volunteer Firemen's Association has been advanced one week because of Holy Thursday and is scheduled to be held Thursday, March 19, 8 p.m. at Rapid Hose Co., Hone Street.

All line officers and the Ex-empt Association are urged to attend.

Immunization Clinic

A clinic for immunization against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, March 20 from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

Immunizations for whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus at three months of age; smallpox vaccinations should be given sometime during the first year of life; and polio immunizations should be started from three to six months of age.

Dear Abby

About Jealous Men!

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: During my childhood I often caught my mother crying. When I was 14, she told me, "Never marry a jealous man." I paid little attention. In fact, I gave it no thought until I married one myself.

All the signs were there for me to read, but when you're in love you think your love can conquer all. It can't.

When I married, I was a 27-year-old virgin because I wanted to be. Well, as far as my husband was concerned, I could just as well have been a streetwalker. After we were married for a good looking girl to have worked alongside men as I had always done, and remain a virgin. And he insisted no one (not even a doctor!) could tell conclusively for sure whether a girl was a virgin or not. I should have said goodbye right then and there, but I had been raised to believe that "divorce" was a disgrace, so I forgave and tried to forget.

Then he started to accuse me of every man I had ever known. I thought a "family" would solve everything, so in five years I had two babies.

Nothing changed. You would think that any man in his right mind would know that a 32-year-old woman with two babies and no money to spend on clothes would hardly be the type to run around with men, but he continued to accuse me.

For 22 years I lived in hell, but I won. Both the children have college degrees and have grown up to be worthwhile people. I have kept my mouth shut when the mere effort made my jaws ache. When the youngest was 21 and established, I walked out on my husband and I "took" him for all I could. Since then, I have put him completely out of my life. I heard recently that he had died. The news (if true) leaves me cold. My "husband" died years ago.

Am I disloyal? I don't think so. I am probably writing this to get off my chest after all these years. But there is more to it than that. I didn't pay any attention to my mother when she told me not to marry a jealous man. And maybe nobody will pay any attention to me. But when some innocent little girl wrote to you saying, "I'm glad my fiancé is jealous. It just proves that he loves me," I wanted to scream!

That poor little thing. Little does she know that it proves nothing of the sort. Wait until she finds out. Jealousy has nothing to do with love. It's a sickness. And no amount of patience, sacrifice, giving in or giving up will cure it. I know this is too long for your column, but I just had to have my say.

PEACE AT LAST
DEAR ABBY: It's long, all right, but I didn't have the heart to cut it. Some people do learn from the mistakes of others. You've paid the "tuition" — perhaps a reader will read this and get by on a "scholarship."

DEAR ABBY: It was bad enough when my girl friend found out about my wife, but when my wife found out about my girl friend, I was in big trouble. Now they have become "Buddy Buddy" — and they shut when the mere effort made week. What do you think they're cooking up?

LARRY
DEAR LARRY: Your Goose, probably.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 96700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may hit pay dirt but odds are favorable if you wait. Numerous details have yet to be finalized. Know this and refuse to be pushed, cajoled or rushed. Depend on your own creative resources.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid overexpansion. Obtain hint from ARIES message. Time is on your side. Trust judgment of those with experience. Radical actions could upset chances for success.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Avoid unnecessary travel. There is flurry of activity which could lead to confusion. Separate fact from fiction. Be knowledgeable — do some additional research.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money matters may seem pressing. But with cooperation from family member, you come out with a profit. Takes two to tango. Applies especially to financial setup today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may also run into obstacles if you insist on instant action — or reaction. You need added cooperation from those who occupy stable positions. Avoid fooling yourself. Be factual.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get answers to some puzzles. But whether this makes you happy is a debatable point. To know or not to know — that is the question. Maintain self-esteem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may have to get used to the idea that some requests are subject to revision. Don't get stuck with one tune. One phase of activity is being completed. Make way for the new.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have a right to be rewarded for efforts. Don't permit anyone to make you a wallflower today. Assert feelings. You know what you can do — now do it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21):

21: Obtain meaningful hint from GEMINI message. Be aware of one who might be creating communications gap. Trust your hunch. Look beyond the immediate — broaden horizons.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Emotions fly high; you have fun because you gain greater degree of self-identity. Individual who had been regarded as friend could become something more.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some disturbance could exist in partnership deal or contract. Intelligent reaction would see you double-checking details, fine print. If you do, you emerge triumphant.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Apply light touch. Many get backs up if you are too insistent. Be a willing listener. Some changes will be made — you don't have to force them.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you attract people to you with their problems. Key is to also aid yourself. Stop permitting so many to drain so much of your energy. Current cycle calls for patience. Next month adjustment is made in home area which is beneficial.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DREAM GIRL: (Q.) What do you think of a guy who is going steady with one girl (me) and dreams about another? He told me about a dream he had. It was about a girl he used to go to school with.

He dreamed they had a fight and then she ran away crying. He ran after her and kissed her and she was all right. (His kisses are convincing—I know.)

Then in the dream he saw me standing there crying. But he can't remember whether he ran after me or not. This is a major catastrophe to me. I want to be first with him not only on dates but also in his dreams. —Unloved?

(A.) Be happy with your star role in his waking life. You can't control what he dreams. You couldn't even if you were married to him.

In dreams we relieve pressures we can't cope with while we are awake. If every boy friend and every husband told every girl friend and every wife the details of every dream he had, life would be a nightmare.

HOUSE HUNT: (Q.) My mother and father saved up to put a payment on a house. But when she finds one he won't buy it because he's scared of high mortgage payments. She is so sad. I can't take this much longer. —Unhappy in Bridgeport, Conn.

(A.) Your parents are faced with a situation that frightens and frustrates the best financial minds in this country. Your father may not be just scared. He may be unable to arrange a loan. Or he may be unable to close a deal on which he can keep up the payments.

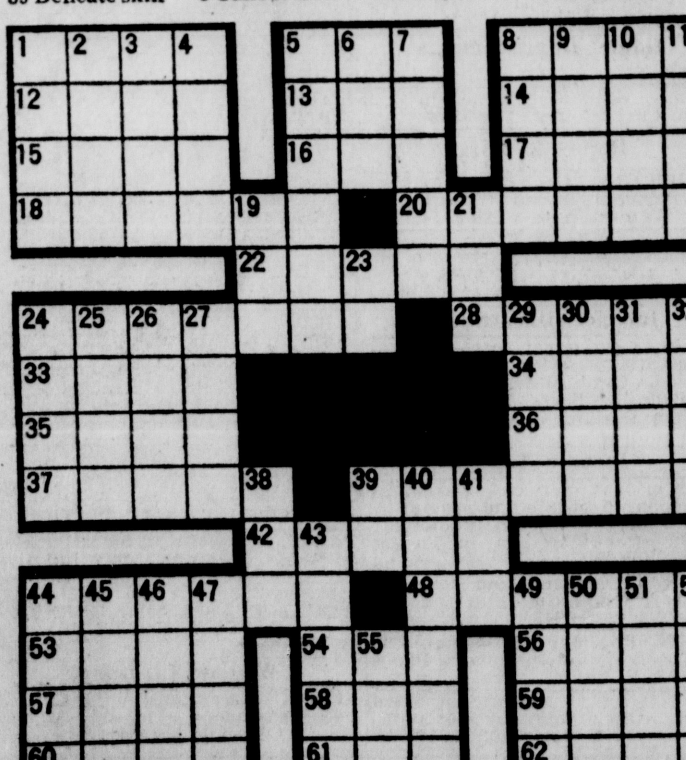

Talk to him about it—with an open mind. Maybe explaining it to you will help him work it out for himself.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402 Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Back to the Old Park Bench

NEW YORK (AP) — After all the promotion of the wedding "Laugh-In's" little old man and his purse-swinging lady love approached a simulated altar Monday night, suddenly split and eventually were back on the old park bench. Gladys, as usual, was swatting the old man with her handbag. Presumably the two-year-old gag will continue to be milked. The almost-marriage was not a particularly inspired sequence, then neither was the rest of the hour. But a prospect of a TV marriage is one sure-fire method of attracting a big audience. "The Tim Conway Comedy Hour," a special on CBS tonight, is presumably a sample of things to come next fall when the round-faced comedian will shift from his present situation comedy to star in a comedy-variety hour.

Conway's specialty is playing the inept, from the bumbling enigma of "McHale's Navy" to the fumbling pilot of his present half-hour show.

That is his role in tonight's special, seen in a preview. The hour is remarkable for the quality of his guest stars, for its reliance on tired visual comedy devices—squirreling seltzer bottles and spreading gobs of shaving cream around—and for frequent lapses of taste.

One sketch about two old and arthritic lifers trying to break out of jail is much too long. So was another in which Conway moved around a topee shop trying on fright wigs—about as funny as a comedian trying on ladies' hats.

The hour seems to have spun off the "Carol Burnett Show."

South Gives East Playful Squeeze

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It was obvious that East was long in both minor suits and Charley wanted to put pressure on him.

The pressure was there, all right. East had to come down to six cards. He actually came down to two diamonds and four clubs. Charley just cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds and ace and king of clubs, ruffed a club and made the last trick with the six of diamonds.

If East had thrown a club, Charley would have set up dummy's fourth club and made the slam that way.

West can beat the spade slam by opening a club and leading a second club when in with the ace of trumps, but it is our considered opinion that, if this hand were to be played several million times, there wouldn't be a single club opening.

With the normal heart lead, South should make six spades if he is one of the hundred or so players who know how to develop a crisscross squeeze.

As far as we know, when Charles Lochridge of New York played this hand at the Cavenish Club back in the early '30s, the crisscross squeeze was unknown.

Charley, one of the greatest card players of all time, was an overbidder. Otherwise, he would have been playing in game only.

He took the ace of hearts and led a trump. West won and played a second heart. Charley trumped and proceeded to run off all but one of his trumps, while discarding the nine and deuce of diamonds from dummy.

where Conway has been a frequent and amusing guest this season. Not only were Miss Burnett and Harvey Korman around to work in sketches, but the program was put together largely by the behind-the-camera staff of the Burnett show. Other guest stars were Danny Thomas and Joe Flynn, once of "McHale's Navy." Beyond singing a sentimental song while broadcast on about half of Frost's lineup of 60 stations by the end of this week.

And next Tuesday, CBS' "60 Minutes" will devote a segment to an interview of the Burtons Conway has a talent for comedy, but someone must find the right way to use it.

New U.S. Air Strikes Support Laos Troops

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command today reported more American air strikes in support of government troops in Laos, where two more outposts fell to the North Vietnamese despite the bombing.

Royal Laotian soldiers retreated from two hilltop outposts commanding approaches to the American support base at Sam Thong under heavy attack this morning, reports from Laos said.

Military spokesmen in Saigon said B52s and smaller jets also pounded the Ho Chi Minh Trail, carrying record amounts of North Vietnamese arms and supplies southward into the Vietnam battlefield.

With most of their missions in Laos, the B52s flew only three raids in South Vietnam overnight, dropping 450 tons of bombs on what were described as guerrilla troop concentrations in the U Minh Forest 151 miles south of Saigon and in Tay Ninh Province bordering Cambodia.

In Saigon, terrorists set off bombs that destroyed a South Vietnamese navy jeep Monday night, and a U.S. Army jeep today, wounding a Vietnamese sailor.

Battlefield communiques reported light and scattered fighting in South Vietnam, with U.S. forces reporting at least 62 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in widely separated actions Monday. American casualties were placed at two killed and 14 wounded.

Guerrilla gunners shelled seven Allied installations Monday night and early today in attacks that wounded three Americans, the U.S. Command said.

Military spokesmen said fighting was light and scattered across South Vietnam Monday with most of the action at the base of Black Virgin Mountain, 58 miles northwest of Saigon.

Units of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division lost two killed and 11 wounded Monday with guerrilla losses undetermined. In the same area Sunday, the 25th Division troops lost one dead and 13 wounded while killing 28 guerrillas in six hours of fighting.

The boulder-strewn mountain overlooks the strategic province capital of Tay Ninh City and several intense battles have been fought in the area.

Artillery fire from the 1st Air Cavalry Division killed six guerrillas 27 miles north of Tay Ninh City and three miles from the Cambodian border Monday afternoon, military spokesmen said.

Yank Base In Jeopardy

VIENTIANE (UPI)—An estimated 1,500 North Vietnamese troops pushed to within six miles of the U.S. support base at Sam Thong today with the capture of a government outpost overlooking the camp.

Laotian officials said three North Vietnamese battalions opened their attack on the outpost Monday and that the 500 government defenders pulled out at 8 a.m. today, their losses considered light.

By noon, 56 seriously wounded government troops had been evacuated to a military hospital in Vientiane. There was no indication how many Laotian soldiers had died in the battle. Guerrilla losses were not known.

The fall of the outpost at Tha Tam Bleung near the top of a 6,300-foot mountain six miles northeast of Sam Thong put the safety of the U.S. support enclave in a precarious position.

Military sources described the situation in the region 75 miles northeast of Vientiane as "quite serious" and said the U.S. Embassy had canceled all routine staff trips to Sam Thong.

Seven North Vietnamese battalions—about 3,500 men—from Hanoi's 316th division and 766th regiment were reported within a night's march of Sam Thong and Long Cheng, a sister U.S. base that serves as headquarters for Gen. Vang Pao's clandestine army.

The Laotian officials said the North Vietnamese attack against Tha Tam Bleung followed a government operation Monday in which Vang's soldiers retook a camp at Ban Phadeng, about 15 miles north-northeast of Sam Thong.

Several of the estimated 47 North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao battalions on the Plain of Jars were said to have begun moving southward toward Sam Thong and Long Cheng during the weekend, apparently in preparation for attacks against the two U.S. bases.

UNEXPECTED HELP — Mrs. Medger Evers, who moved to California a year after the 1963 slaying of her husband in Jackson, Miss., gets some unexpected help on her speech from her dog "Honey Bun" shortly after she announced Monday that she will seek the Democratic nomination for Congress in California's 24th District. The seat in the heavily-Republican district was vacated last month by the death of Rep. Glenard Lipscomb, a Republican. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Sihanouk Gets Soviet Vow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia delayed his departure for Peking again today upon receiving Soviet promises to help him resist "imperialist provocations" and keep his nation neutral and sovereign.

The one-day postponement coincided with reports from Phnom Penh that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese officials, in their meeting Monday with the Cambodian foreign minister, refused to discuss the removal of their estimated 40,000 troops from Cambodia. No reason was given for Sihanouk's decision to stay in Moscow one more day, the third time he has done it in his attempt to get Soviet backing from the withdrawal of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers.

The Soviet leadership's promise today made no direct mention of the troops or what the Kremlin was going to do about Sihanouk's warning that their presence has created an anti-Communist movement in Cambodia that could replace his government with one closer to the United States. The Soviet news agency Tass said the Cambodian chief of state and Kremlin officials agreed alleged American aggression in Laos and Vietnam was the main reason for all the problems in Southeast Asia. Tass said the Soviet government told Sihanouk he "could continue relying on the Soviet Union for all-round support in the struggle against imperialist provocations and interference in her affairs, for the safeguarding of neutrality and guaranteeing her territorial integrity and sovereignty."

The statement left it open for interpretation whether the final six words meant the Soviets would pressure the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to remove their troops from Cambodia.

The Two Alleged Eagle Mutineers Are Granted Asylum in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two alleged mutineers who commandeered the U.S. munitions ship Columbia Eagle and pirated her to Cambodia have been granted political asylum there.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., identified the two crewmen as Clyde McKay, Escondido, Calif., and Alvin Glatkowski, Long Beach, Calif.

Hatfield, who has been in contact with the State Department because the ship is owned by the Columbia Steam Ship Co., Portland, Ore., said nine U.S. warships have been ordered to stand by 12 miles off shore from Sihanoukville, Cambodia, where the ship is anchored.

In Phnom Penh, Lloyd Rives, charge d'affaires of the U.S. Embassy in Cambodia, confirmed the two alleged pirates asked for and were granted political asylum in Cambodia. But he said he knew nothing of their identity beyond the fact that both were Americans. Irving C. Thayer, president of the Columbia line, said in Portland he could not identify the two, but confirmed McKay and Glatkowski both left the ship in Sihanoukville.

The captain and 12 other crew members forced to accompany the hijackers remained on the ship. The rest of the crew was put over the side in lifeboats through a fake bomb threat when the takeover occurred. They later were rescued by another ship. The vessel contains a cargo of 50-pound and 750-pound bombs, originally bound for Thailand.

Rives said Cambodian authorities have been "very cooperative" and he expected to be able to make contact with some of the crew members shortly. He said the ship still is under the control of the Cambodian navy and "I do not know when it will leave."
